ATTENDANCE IN LOCAL SCHOOLS GAINS IN YEAR

Figures bearing upon school attendance, released today by J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools, show a total attendance of 6969 for the school year of 1926-27 as against 6716 for the year of 1925-26, leaving an increase of 253 in favor of the latter year.

The biggest gain, 142, is noted in the two junior high schools, where attendance figures for the two years jumped from 1125 to 1267. The kindergarten department increased from 550 to 603; the elementary grades, from 3267 to 3271, the junior college from 284 to 328, and the Americanization and evening classes from 485 to 509.

A loss of 43 in the senior high school, which went down from 1005 in 1925-26 to 962 in the school year just drawn to a close, is explained by increased enrollment in the Garden Grove and Tustin high schools, which formerly sent students to the Santa Ana high school.

A comparison of total school attendance for the years of 1916-17, 1921-22 and 1926-27, shows a 95.8 per cent gain in ten years and 34.2 per cent in the past five years.

Resignation Of Mrs. McPherson Not Permitted grateful, the evangelist retailed by declaring that "Mother" Kennedy was the victim of an "inflamed mind."

Gladwyn Nichols, former Angelus temple bandmaster, tossed another coal into the ship's fire by declaring that both mother and daughter would find "confession good for the soul" and demanded that the evangelist reopen the kidnapping case before a jury of her own congregation.

Nichols, who with 300 deserting members of the Four Square gospel, founded the Church of Philadelphia, received little attention in the crucial struggle between Mrs. McPherson and her mother.

Woman Is Killed When Hit By Car

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 29.—An inquest is scheduled to be held here today into the death of Mrs. Mary McIntyre, 76, of Denver, who was killed at a street intersection here last night by an automobile.

The machine was driven by Glenn W. Bede, 15, who is being held by police pending an investigation into the accident.

Mrs. McIntyre was crossing the street with her daughter, Mrs. W. I. Brooks, of Denver, when the machine hit her.

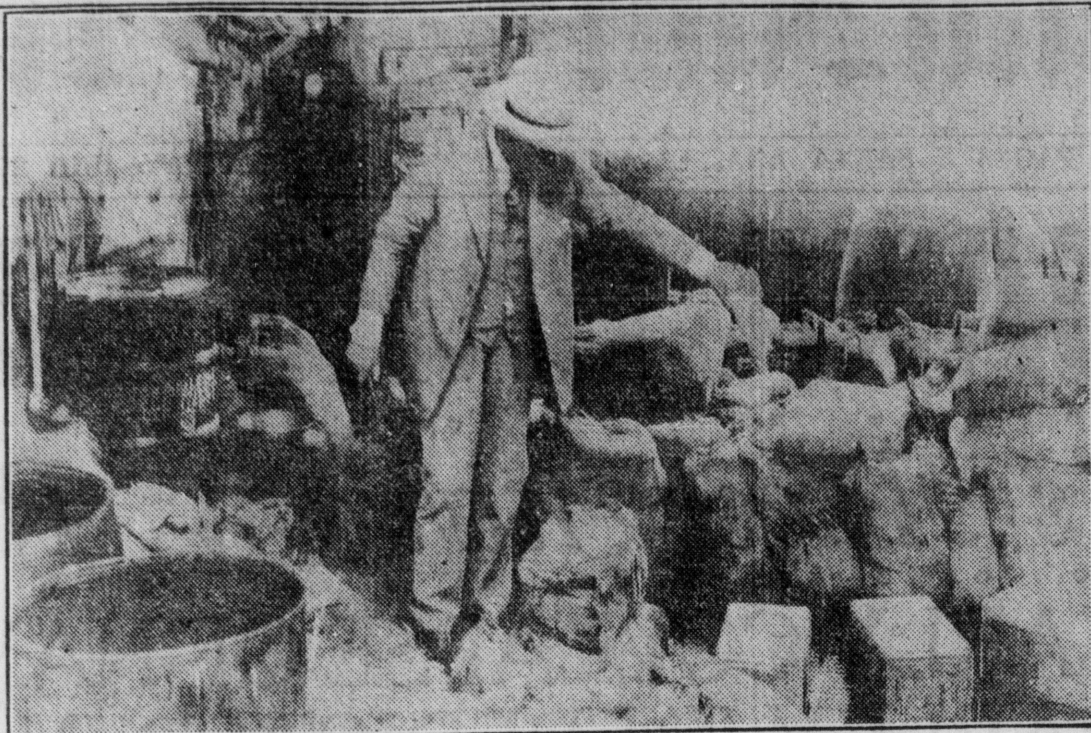

Navy Flyer Enters Dole Pacific Race

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29.—Lt. Norman A. Goddard, of the U. S. Navy reserve, at San Diego, today filed his entry blank and fee for the Dole prize race to Honolulu on August 12, according to announcement by Frank P. Flynn, chairman of the contest committee.

Goddard will pilot a monoplane of his own design and built by himself. He will take a navigator. He is the sixth to officially enter the race.

SHERIFF SAM JERNIGAN POURED

Here is the pile of whiskey cases and five gallon cans of grain alcohol, part of which exploded yesterday afternoon in the Orange county garage, Church and Sycamore streets, painfully burning Ben A. Lieberman, a tire salesman. Deputy Sheriffs were emptying the cans into a drain at the time. Sheriff Sam Jernigan is shown emptying one of the bottles of Scotch Whiskey. This picture was taken 20 minutes before the explosion.

LOUIS HEFFNER IS QUESTIONED BY GRAND JURY

through which they gained access to the women's quarters. Waddell and Cox, according to the Collins affidavit, spent hours at a time in the women's quarters with Dorothy Tibbets and Eva "Ma" Diebolt. Dorothy Tibbets, Collins claimed, sent him a note asking him why he did not come to see her.

Collins was before the grand jury but a short time. When he was returned to his cell, Joe Buchta, federal investigator, was summoned into the jury room for his second appearance there. He remained closed with the grand jury until it adjourned, an hour and a half later. That period evidently was a hectic one, as Buchta's voice could be heard at times in the corridor of the Hall of Records, raised in vehement tones as he told his story.

Buchta, West in Conference
When the grand jury adjourned, Buchta remained in conference with District Attorney West, Deputy Sam Collins and Dr. Jesse G. Hilleary, foreman of the grand jury.

Head Jailer Orlo Moncrief today denounced statements said to have been made by W. D. Grafton, Anaheim councilman, and his brother, Edward Grafton, Los Angeles publisher, regarding alleged brutal treatment of the publisher when arrested for speeding. The Graftons were understood to have told the grand jury Wednesday that Edward Grafton was struck twice in the face by Moncrief because he refused to sign the jail register.

"I slapped his face," said Moncrief, "but the true story is altogether different from what the Graftons are supposed to have testified. I did not slap him because he refused to sign the jail register."

"The jail records will show that Grafton was brought here on a charge of being drunk, and for refusing to sign a speed ticket and for abusing an officer. Those charges were not a bit overdrawn. He was one of the most violently abusive prisoners we have had in the jail. I slapped him only after he had called me a string of vile names."

"It was stated that I later explained to him that I wouldn't have treated him that way if I had known his brother was an Anaheim councilman. Let me say, flatly, that statement is a lie. No man, not even if he was the president's brother, could call me the names Grafton called me and 'get away' with it."

Commenting on the testimony of Charles Collins, Moncrief said that Collins was one of the most obstreperous prisoners in the jail, becoming so disorderly and insulting after he had been refused a parole that it was necessary to place him in solitary confinement.

Week's Time Given Julian Principals

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—Harry M. Haldeman, president of the Better America federation, and W. L. Hollingsworth, local financier, have been given a week's extension in which to make restitution of alleged profits on loans to the Julian Petroleum corporation.

The extension of time was revealed today by the Julian receivers, who stated that unless a refund of their asserted gains on loans of more than $100,000 to pool No. 1 is made, suits asking judgment for triple the amount of interest would be filed next week.

A suit also is contemplated against Adolph Ramish, theater magnate, it was said. The audit of Ramish's asserted pool and loan operations, however, is holding up action against him, but he will be sued unless he makes restitution within a reasonable period.

African Trinkets Favored In Paris

PARIS, July 29.—Enthusiasts are combing the auction rooms here for objects of primitive African art. Such objects, particularly African musical instruments, brought record prices at a recent sale in the Druot auction rooms. The fad for Negro art is growing rapidly.

One Man Injured as Rum Explodes While Being Dumped in Sewer

One man was painfully burned and several others narrowly escaped injury when hundreds of gallons of confiscated liquor, being poured into a sewer in the Orange county garage at Church and Sycamore streets, exploded yesterday afternoon.

Ben A. Lieberman, 2016 Bush street, the salesman for the Herbert Miller company, was severely burned about the arms and face. He was a spectator.

According to deputy sheriffs who were busy breaking the necks of hundreds of bottles containing Scotch whiskey, they suddenly saw fire arise from a puddle in the floor caused by the dumping of the liquor. Immediately afterward there were several explosions and the garage was filled with fire and smoke.

The sheriff's men, under the direction of Sheriff Jernigan himself, were dumping 221 five gallon cans of pure grain alcohol and 144 cases of confiscated liquor at the time.

The liquor was part of shipments past several months, and at bootleg prices was worth approximately $20,000.

The whiskey was of the finest of old Scotch import, it was said. The alcohol was confiscated last December near El Toro by Officers Adams and Flower.

Firemen from central station were called to extinguish the blaze which had spread to other parts of the garage by the time they arrived. The loss however, was nil, it was said.

Many of the cans exploded when the hose was thrown on them, the explosions coming so closely together that they resembled the firing of a machine gun, officers said.

Court Notes

Case Is Set

The case of W. D. Le Grande, in which he is charged with non-support of a minor child, Vivian Le Grande, 7, has been set for August 10 in the superior court. Attorney D. G. Wettlin represented Le Grande.

You can whip our cream, but you can't beat our milk.

The Cost of It Didn't Stop Us!

This company leaped into a commanding position in the milk business of this county because of its sincerity. Every step that could better the milk supply was taken immediately. The cost of it was and is a secondary matter. So now every drop of fresh and fresh Pasteurized milk that we sell comes from NON-REACTING TUBERCULIN TESTED COWS. This not only makes history here but further assures our patrons of the best at all times.

To thinking people, cleaning up the herds is the one biggest single exploit Orange County could undertake.

When we say to you that this is far and away the most popular, best patronized and most pleasing sale of shoes that Peterson's has ever offered, you know that means a great deal. Because there never has been anything in Santa Ana like our $5.00 sales.

The reason is that this line covers much more territory, includes the cream of our stocks, and the values are so exceptional that no woman has found any good excuse for staying away. Many of our best patterns will disappear tomorrow.

MARRIAGE OF GIRL
WED HERE ANNULLED

Mrs. Dorothy Cox walked into the court room of Judge Falk in Los Angeles yesterday seeking an annulment to her marriage to Raymond Cox, performed in Santa Ana in 1925. Just two minutes and 45 seconds later she walked

The court room proceeding was one of the briefest on record, court attaches declared. The girl's father, S. C. Campbell, testified that his daughter was under 18 when she eloped to Orange county to marry Cox.

AIRPLANE HERE

A group of more than 40 prominent business men of Santa Ana and leading Orange county cities will greet officials of the Ford Motor company when the big trimotored all metal passenger plane stops at the Santa Ana airport at the Eddie Martin field tomorrow morning. The ship is due to arrive in Santa Ana at 11 a. m. It will bear W. B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford Motor company, and other officials of the company.

The big ship was purchased recently by Jack Maddux, Los Angeles automobile dealer and will be placed in passenger service between San Francisco and El Paso, by way of Los Angeles, Santa Ana and San Diego, according to reports. The ship is now looking for a place to locate the headquarters of the passenger service and according to George Raymer, secretary of the chamber of commerce here, Santa Ana has as good a chance as any city in Southern California to be selected as the home of the passenger service.

The ship visited Long Beach
Thursday and San Diego today.
Tomorrow afternoon it will visit Inglewood.

You And Your Friends

Mrs. Marietta Phillo of 1115
French street received a telegram today from her son-in-law, Frank Nemeyer of Little Rock, Ark., saying that he expected to arrive here Sunday. He and his wife were visitors in Santa Ana last winter.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eckroat and little son Ted of Oklahoma City, Okla., are among recent arrivals in Santa Ana and at present are visiting at the home of
Mr. Eckroat's cousin, Mrs. M. R.
Sturbaum of 1503 Spurgeon street.
Mr. Eckroat is ticket agent for the Rock Island Railroad company at Oklahoma City and is spending his vacation in California and Colorado accompanied by his family.
Mrs. Gertrude Berry, who has been making her home with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W.
W. Berry of Silver Acres, is to leave today on the Santa Ana for Cable, Ohio, on a visit of about three months.

Miss Wanda Nelwanger, who has been visiting at the home of her cousin R. R. Caldwell, and Mrs. Caldwell, of 1806 Bush street, and other friends here, left today on a trip to Honolulu, before returning to her home in Washington, Iowa.

Mrs. Mary L. Owen, who has
yesterday on the Santa Fe for her home in Joplin, Mo.

Mrs. Ethel Peterson of 315
South Main street has completed the summer session of school at Claremont and is expected home today.

Mr. and Mrs. Don F. Hinkley of 1113 Spurgeon street are expecting the arrival today or tomorrow of Mr. and Mrs. Leo E. Woods and their children, Junior and Billie, who are motoring from Seattle for a visit of a week or ten days. Mrs.
Woods is Mrs. Hinkley's sister.

Among those who are planning to attend the Nebraska picnic to be held tomorrow at Bixby park,
Long Beach, are Mr. and Mrs.
Charles Blackburn, Mr. and Mrs.
E. P. Gilmour, Mr. and Mrs. W. C.
May, and Mrs. Marietta Phillo and her granddaughter Miss Madalyn Phillo.

Mrs. Dwight Kenyon and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cartwright departed by auto today for Vancouver, Canada. They will be absent six weeks.

SIXTY MARRIAGE LICENSES ARE ISSUED FINAL DAY OF MARRYING UNDER OLD LAW

Sixty marriage licenses issued here yesterday, the last day for marrying under the old law and thus evading the "four days notice," smashed all records at the local bureau, it was announced by County Clerk J. M. Backs.

Today and for the next two days, no marriage licenses can be issued anywhere in California. Notices of intention will be filed, instead. The first notice of intention filed in Orange county, under the new law, was that of John Adot, 28, and Letha Meadows, 24, both of Yorba Linda.

After breaking all records in June, which went far over the 600 mark, prospective brides and grooms dawdled along during July in apparent apathy to the approach of the new marriage law which went into effect today.

Then all at once they awoke to the urgency of avoiding the new law, with its four days wait for a license. Two days before the change, couples started pouring into the license bureau. Wednesday saw 54 licenses issued, which tied the old record made on December 31, 1923, the last day before leap year. Yesterday the rush continued with even greater volume. License clerks worked feverishly throughout the day and when the smoke cleared away last night, three score couples had established a new high record.

HILL-CLIMBERS ADD TO LEAD IN LEAGUE

Games may come and games may go but the United Presbyterian Hill-Climbers kept right on winning in the Santa Ana Twilight league.

Already a clinch for the championship, the churchmen further increased their lead over the Post Office, second place team, by vanquishing the American Legion Bugle and Drum corps, 17 to 7, at Lincoln park yesterday.

Raitt and Trusty, opposing sub-mariners, both were hit hard but Raitt kept his scattered. L. Boyle, Smiley, Miller and Stearns all collected three safeties. The score:

AUTO BACKS INTO ORANGE STREET CAR

No one was reported injured when a truck, reported to have been driven by Ray Kruechel, Santa Ana, backed out into an Orange street car, near Fourth and French street, yesterday.

The truck was backing out of a stall at the curbing at the time, it was said. The street car was in charge of Roy Roepke, conductor, at the time.

3 Motorcyclists Traverse Sahara

PARIS, July 29.—Motorcycles have competed successfully with camels in crossing the Sahara. Three Frenchmen—Bruneteau, Weerens and Gemie—have been given all the honors due pioneers and explorers for their 5000-mile trip from Casablanca south to Oran and on the Dakar, through Timbuctoo, over the sands previously traversed by the camel only. The sand tourists were a month making the whole trip, in 26 stages.

YOUTHS HELD ON BURGLARY CHARGES HERE

Because a Santa Ana woman, Miss Alice Morris, 1233 South Parton street, had the presence of mind to copy the license number of a machine used by two youths whom she saw acting in a suspicious manner, Willard Ryan, 17, 8124 Virginia avenue, Southgate, and Robert Conway, 19, 208 California street, Walnut Park, are in the Orange county jail today charged with burglary.

They were arrested early today at Southgate after the automobile number had been checked through the motor vehicle department by Santa Ana officers and the Southgate officers notified.

The two youths are charged with breaking into Don's grocery store, 1244 South Main street, on the night of July 22. At that time a quantity of cigars, cigarettes, and groceries, together with $5 in pennies were taken. A crowbar was used to break the lock on the front door and officers have a crowbar, found in the machine owned by Ryan, which they believe is the same used to gain entrance to the store. Miss Morris is said to have been driving past the grocery store at the time the boys were working at the front door. She turned her machine around and went back, securing the number of the automobile.

When the burglary was reported to police the following morning, she gave officers the number she had obtained and it led to Southgate and the arrest of the two boys.

Both were brought into Justice Kenneth Morrison's court today and they were certified to the juvenile court. The youths were brought here from Southgate by Officers Elliott and Peterson of the Santa Ana police force.

French Get Cash From Profiteers

PARIS, July 29.—"War profits" are still furnishing France with a steady income, nearly nine years after the war.

Nearly two million francs a day pour into the coffers of Premier and Minister of Finance Raymond Poincare. This is money the government is recovering from contractors who "salted" their bills for munitions, as the French say, and also the taxes the various get-rich-quick merchants failed to pay.

Ever since the armistice parliamentary commissions, courts and special tribunals and accountants have been going over every war contract and the books of many business firms.

London Has 6700 Deaths Of Cancer

LONDON, July 29.—More than 6700 persons died from cancer in London during 1926, according to the annual report of the London county council. These figures show a slight increase over the death-rate of other years.

The report explains that these statistics do not indicate an increase in the number of cases of cancer but rather an increase in fatalities.

Dad's Liking To Dance Saves Sons Tax On $313,000

NEW YORK, July 29.—Inheritance taxes on $313,000, worth of real estate were saved to the estate of Moses Ottinger, wealthy realtor, because of his fondness for dancing at the age of 81, it was revealed in an appraisal made by New York State Tax Commissioner Stephenson.

The estate, valued at $1,229,406, was left largely to his four sons, one of whom is State Attorney General Albert Ottinger. About two years before his death, Mr. Ottinger divided a $313,000 interest in a Broadway building among his sons. To prove the division was not made in anticipation of death and therefore taxable, witnesses were called to prove he frequently indulged in dancing.

Wardens of the Dutch Reform church in rural districts of Holland have refused to marry women having bobbed hair.

Deny Life Span Is Now Shorter

LONDON, July 29.—The argument that people do not live as long now as in past centuries was refuted in an address made before the London Medical society by Professor Julian Huxley. He declared that science has prolonged modern life.

One of the contributors ycauses for the downfall of the ancient Greeks, he said, was malaria. He added that the problems which now confront the medical profession are cancer and sleepingsickness.

More than 150,000 people in Wales do not speak English.

GOLD OUTPUT INCREASES

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Despite the Nicaraguan civil war, the mining of gold in that central American republic increased greatly last year, and with installation of modern machinery is expected to increase further this year, according to commerce department reports.

Miss Josephine Sawdey Receives Many Gifts At Pretty Party

A collection of gifts for her future "honeymoon home" and a delightful afternoon for her friends was the friendly courtesy extended Miss Josephine Sawdey recently by Miss Louise Turner, assisted by her mother, Mrs. L. A. Turner.

The Rose Arbor tea room was chosen as setting for the affair, and guests were asked to choose dainty tally cards for a session of bridge. In the contest, honors went to Miss Olive Goodman whose reward was a hand-painted bonbon dish. Second place was achieved by Miss Helen Battey who was presented with a pair of hand-decorated shoe trees. Consolation gift of a "goofy-bird" was secured by the honoree, Miss Sawdey.

Lest the amusing "goofy-bird" should not be consolation enough for Miss Sawdey, the hostess presented her with a large hat-box adorned with a flaring bow of orchid ribbon, and holding an amazing array of packages. These were the loveliest of gifts selected by her assembled friends, in honor of her approaching marriage to Donald M. Fletcher, announcement of which was made in mid-July.

While everything was being duly examined and admired, the tables were arranged for serving a two-course tea consisting of refreshing salads and sandwiches followed by cake and ices. Each table was adorned to conform to an orange and green decorative scheme.

For the party, Miss Sawdey chose to wear one of her lovely tulle-trousseau gowns, an artistically beaded georgette in pale rose tones, with silver slippers. Miss Turner chose a rose and blue broad-clothed gown, while Mrs. Turner's costume was of orchid crepe de chine completed with a shoulder flower in orchid-pink tones.

The guests in equally beautiful afternoon gowns, were drawn from the 1926 graduating class at Polytechnic high school of which the honoree was a member. They included the Misses Corinne Black-burn, Olive Goodman, Beth Nunn, Mildred Vieira, Murrell Knox, May Sexton, Helen Sawdey, Charlotte Harnois, Catherine Maroon, Mildred Liverspire, Josephine Hoffman, Helen Battey, Margaret Carothers and Georgia Turner.

Miss Sawdey and Mr. Fletcher have announced the date for their marriage as August 20, and the intervening weeks are being made very delightful for the bride-elect, with a series of parties and showers tendered by her friends.

Miss Clara Appuhn Weds C. R. Hill

At a quiet ceremony last night in the parsonage home at 318 Brown street, of the Rev. William Schmoeck, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church, Miss Clara E. Appuhn became the bride of Clifford R. Hill, and the young people left at once for a honeymoon trip in a direction that they were careful to keep secret from their friends. The wedding was at 8 o'clock, and for it, Miss Appuhn chose a lovely gown of peach crepe de chine with all dress accessories to harmonize. The utmost simplicity prevailed at the ceremony. Upon their return from the honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Hill will take possession of an attractive apartment on South Van Ness avenue.

Mr. Hill is a well-known local builder, who has lived in Santa Ana for several years. His parents still reside in his former home in Indiana. His bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mary A. Ketscher of 337 Beverly Place. She graduated from Santa Ana high school with the class of 1919 and for five years held a responsible position with the Pacific South-west bank.

A host of friends will await the return of the happy pair, to offer congratulations and good wishes for their future.

MUSIC RECITAL

Minnie Phillips Heard
A large group of friends assembled in the Earl Fraser studio, Greenleaf building, Wednesday night to hear a piano program presented by Miss Thelma Glasscock, pupil of Minnie Phillips Heard, associate teacher with Mr. Fraser.

Miss Glasscock, a graduate with the 1927 class at Polytechnic high school, is one of the most talented younger musicians of the city, and her Wednesday night program reflected Mrs. Heard's teaching ability, most admirably.

The fourteen numbers comprising the piano program, were all played from memory, and the pianist displayed a well-nigh faultless interpretation, according to trained musicians who heard and enjoyed the recital.

Probably the most exacting numbers played, were the two Weber compositions, "Invitation to the Dance" and "Perpetual Motion," both of which have a markedly rapid tempo. These were played brilliantly indeed. The program offered also a Pachelbel group, "Dance Antique," "Prayer," "April," "The Cloister" and "Romance in A Flat." Chopin's preludes No. 15 and No. 3; Mazurka, Opus 67, No. 4 and "Romance in A Flat;" Schubert-Liszt's "Soiree de Vienne;" Liszt's "Liebestraum" and "Hark, Hark, the Lark!" by Schubert-Liszt.

To give variety to the evening, Miss Dora Perkins, expression pupil of Miss Etta Hale, gave two groups of enjoyable readings, "Just Like a Woman" and "Mean Little Torment," and an Italian dialect number, "Georgio Wash." Miss Perkins is also a piano pupil of Miss Glasscock.

SOCIETY FAVORS ALL-WHITE FOR EASTERN BEACH WEAR

BY BETSY SCHUYLER
NEA Service Writer

NEWPORT, R. I., July 29.—Rem-niscent of white nights. In the South Seas and other gleaming whitenesses is the vogue for white at smart Newport this summer.

Of course there's color on Bal-ley's Beach. Everybody swims in color! And there is color else-where, exquisite pastel shades mostly.

But the immaculate note struck by dozens of intriguing white costumes seen in and about the Coun-try club on the ocean golf links, dancing evenings and for every kind of sports events holds my attention.

Almost a Fetish
White hats, in fact, are almost a fetish. One might say that Newport, instead of being "high hat" is "white hat." Such modish women as Mrs. James Denison Sawyer, Mrs. Kenneth Shaw Safe, Mrs. C. Oliver O'Donnell, Countess Alfonso P. Villa, the Duchess Tor-lina, Princess Miguel de Braganza and Mrs. Frederick Cameron Church, Jr., wear them both with white costumes and colored frocks. Hats are all sizes, though the small hat has the edge.

I'm glad to note that the ubiq-uitous felt is yielding somewhat, though reluctantly, to the invasion of straw hats. Surely the soft woven straws, the featherweight bally-buntis and graceful swiss and horsehairs deserve victory!

A white hat of woven straw, with stripes of lacy gray straw, topped a smart outfit that Mrs. George Tuttle Brokaw wore when she played on the cool green links with her husband the other day.

The sweater of her costume had an invisible lattice work design in open-work atitch and a collar of flat crepe with an unusual treat-ment which hung two narrow ties from shoulder to shoulder like a necklace. The silk skirt had triple box pleats.

Perhaps the most satisfyingly impeccable whiteness I've noticed on the links was worn by Miss Helen Mitchell.

A kind of white silk homespun fashioned the beautifully deep cir-cular of a next little zipper line of gold clips fastened the jump-edged its collarless neck and cuffs sleeves and formed the finish for the bottom of the jumper and the flaring skirt.

Scarlet Kerchief
She wore a handsome scarlet and gold kerchief knotted with stud-ded carelessness around her neck. And the saddle of her white buck gold shoes matched the scarlet.

Diagonal closings made two white frocks I saw yesterday seem intriguingly interesting. Mrs. Rich-ard Hooker's white Jersey costume emphasized this one-sided type of blouse by having the neck decid-edly square. Mrs. F. A. B. Wide-ner's white soft crepe afternoon dress outlined the side closing with Ajour.

A Compromise
Mrs. Morris de Peyster com-promised with the white vogue by wearing a stunning evening dress of white chiffon with deep cir-cular rounce, and holding an amaz-ing cape of white printed in green and yellow flowers. Her satin sash was green and yellow.

Miss Beatrice Greenough spon-sored white for evening, too, a soft, fine lace, made with a triple tiered skirt joined to a simple bod-ice by wide green satin ribbon that fashioned a huge squashy bow on either hip, in bouffant manner.

FRANCE IS SAVING
PARIS, July 29.—The thrifty French, despite the high taxes and high cost of living, still are saving money. It is estimated that every other person in the country has a savings account aggregating 500 francs. The real value of the money, however, is only about three-fifth of what it was in 1914.

Children Plan Party For Birthday of Their Mother

When Mr. and Mrs. Elwayne ("Denny") Wilcox dropped in at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wilcox, 615 West Second street, last night, and suggested an evening drive, the senior Mrs. Wilcox never dreamed that she was falling in with their plans for a birthday surprise in her honor, when she suggested that they drive to Orange County park.

But after their arrival at the park, the secret was disclosed, for the other members of the family were awaiting their arrival, and a picnic table was arrayed with delicious birthday fare, while tooth-ome steaks were broiling on the grill. The dinner ended with ice cream and a birthday cake for Mrs. Wilcox.

Gathered to do honor to their mother, were the sons and daughters of the home, with their children, the entire party compris-ing Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. McMillan and chil-dren, Larene, Eugene and Howard; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wilcox and daughter Joan; Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Wilcox and son Billy, and Mr. and Mrs. Elwayne Wilcox.

Old Kansas Friends Plan Birthday Dinner

A group of friends of long stand-ing in his former home of Har-ford, Kas., assembled in Santa Ana yesterday to aid C. F. Perkins of 212 Orange avenue, in the celebra-tion of his eighty-first birthday.

The party was planned as a sur-prise to Mr. Perkins, with the con-ivance of his daughter, Mrs. M. E. Finch, and all the guests took pleasure in adding special dishes to the appetizing dinner served at mid-day. Prominent place was given a great birthday cake.

A happy afternoon was given over to conversation in which many happenings of former associations in Kansas, were recalled. Mr. Perkins has lived in Santa Ana for the past three years, and a Kansas reunion has been a feature of each summer.

In the group, in addition to Mrs. Finch and Mr. Perkins, were Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Perkins and Mrs. Mollie Buck of this city; Mrs. George Harper of Orange, Mr. and Mrs. J. Evans of Hollywood, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stratton and their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. W. Maxwell and Mr. and Mrs. Preston Fullen of Glendale, and Mr. and Mrs. Henley of Texas.

Oakland Newly-weds Are Visiting Here

Mr. and Mrs. Earl P. Ladd of 1905 West Washington avenue, are entertaining Mr. Ladd's neph-ew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Gifford of Oakland, who are enjoying a honeymoon in the Southland.

Mrs. Gifford was formerly Miss Clarice Alberta Richter of Oak-land, and the marriage was the event of recent date. Both young people are popular in a wide cir-cle of friends in the northern city where Mr. Gifford is an expert adjuster with the Ohner Fare Register company. Following their visit in Santa Ana, his company will send him to Los Angeles for some special work, and thence to Arizona where similar matters await his attention. Mrs. Gifford will accompany him.

Mr. and Mrs. Gifford were joined on the trip south by the former's mother, Mrs. Bertha Gif-ford, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. E. A. Ladd of Garden Grove.

READY FOR WINTER
SEATTLE, Wn., July 29.—The "Wamcats," soldiers of the Wash-ington-Alaska Military Cable and Telegraph service, are laying in provisions for another winter in the north when they will be cut off from the outside world.

Former Newspaper Man Weds Charming Girl In This City

Climaxing a romance which started when the groom was con-nected with the company employ-ing his bride's father, John Frank-lin Hall of Long Beach, and Miss Gael Murphine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphine of San Cle-mente, were married by Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison yester-day afternoon.

Mr. Hall, a former Long Beach and Los Angeles newspaperman, is now sales manager for the Pioneer Realty company of Buttonwillow, Kern county. He and his bride will spend a month honeymooning in Southern California.

Mr. Hall formerly was publicity manager for the Ole Hanson or-ganization at San Clemente. Miss Murphine's father is connected in an official capacity with the Han-son organization.

The bride, an attractive brunette, is a member of the Chi Omega sorority of the University of Wash-ington. Mr. Hall is a member of the Sigma Tau fraternity of the University of California.

The couple was attended by the groom's sister, Mrs. F. A. Snyder of Long Beach, and Nell Stanley of Santa Ana, long time friend of the groom.

Fashion Hints

FLOWER STEMS

Clear crystal vases give double beauty from a bouquet if you ar-range the stems under the water as carefully as you do the blooms above.

CHICKEN GRILL

Chicken legs and wings can be utilized appetizingly by grilling with small sausages and bacon and serving with fried pineapple slices.

STUFFED TOMATOES

Tomatoes stuffed with fruit and served with boiled cream dressing make an unusually delicious and different tasting luncheon salad.

PICTURE PRINTS

Old-fashioned tinted prints from books and magazines make charm-ing medallions for smart lamb shades, boxes or even wall decorations.

BRONZE TRIMMINGS

A Parisian dinner gown of transparent black velvet takes bronze lace for its Eton jacket and flaring skirt flounce.

FROSTED GLASS

LEFT-OVER CORN

Cut left-over corn from the cob and use just as canned corn for chowder, scalloped corn and other good supper dishes.

MACARONI SALAD

Macaroni and cheese which is left-over can be used as salad by chopping into half-inch pieces and covering with mayonnaise.

CHEESE SALAD

Roll small balls of cream cheese, sprinkle with paprika, place three on lettuce leaf and grate Roque-fort cheese over top. Serve with French dressing.

NEW DRESSING

For fruit salads a delightful dressing results from whipping two tablespoons of fruit jam into mayonnaise with a little heavy cream added.

MINT MOUSSE

If you make your own ice-cream, a delightful dessert can be made by flavoring your regular recipe of mousse with mint.

CRISP ROLLS

To crispen rolls in muggy sum-mer weather, sprinkle lightly with water and insert in hot grill pan for a few minutes.

JELLIED SALADS

Left-over vegetables or meat chopped fine and mixed with nuts, can be made into most at-tractive salads when jellied in meat stock.

CLOTHES BAGS

Dusty summer months should find all your clothes covered with bags. You can purchase inexpen-sive paper ones or make bags from cheap material.

CLEAN STRAWS

To clean light straw hats dis-solve an ounce of oxalic acid to a quart of water. With small brush scrub hat with solution.

BAKED POTATOES

For baking potatoes in hot weather boil first for 15 minutes and then bake. This uses less gas and prevents heating the kitchen.

TENDER HAMBURGER

Adding one cup of bread or cracker crumbs to each pound of hamburger, and breaking into it a couple of eggs will make the meat seem tenderer and more tasty.

DELICIOUS TASTE

Keep mint on hand in summer time. A bit added to iced tea, bev-erages or even French dressing gives a delicious tang.

USE PLUMB LINE
PARIS, July 29.—After a while they'll be using transits in dress-making if the designers get any more particular. They're already using a plumb line. The test is to drop the line from the tip of the shoulder to the ground, while the arms are folded. If the line touches the hip, the woman is considered too stout and should reduce.

MUSIC LOVERS OF CITY HEAR CIANFONI BAND

The remarkably brilliant and dynamic program presented last evening by Santa Ana Municipal band with its gifted leader, Director D. C. Cianfoni, brought forth especially gratifying, well-deserved response from an ever-increasing throng of Orange county music-lovers, approximately 4000 crowding Birch park to capacity. Especially did this performance give striking proof of the band's value and popularity as a community asset.

Stressing the importance of order during the concert, Harry Hanson, president and manager of the band, made a request for courtesy and co-operation from the audience, so necessary for the success of any musical program.

In the opening march, Grafulla's "Washington Grays," graceful clarity of wind instruments contrasted well with a forceful finale of drum effects, rapidly swelling into spirited crescendo.

Ever a favorite, the "William Tell" Overture (Rossini), was easily one of the high lights of an unusually effective evening. A magnificent tone-picture, replete with vivid, heart-stirring contrasts, the hushed and peaceful andante, softly modulating into sensuous and enchanting harmonies, followed by the pealing crash of the thunderstorm in all its fury, was admirably rendered. Rhythmical, sweetly melodic, the popular "Prince of Pilsen," of Gustav Luder's, charmed with haunting and memory-provoking sadness, breaking into a lilting, infectious movement animated by colorful, well-blended shading, presented with full appreciation of tone values and balance.

Ethereally lovely and fanciful, fairy-like grace and imagery, the delicate waltz number "Wedding of the Winds" (Hall), charmed with ever-blending, softly shifting harmonies, its sprightly fitfulness drifting into a swaying and languorous waltz movement especially lovely, growing to a stirring finale. Admirably did this number display the splendid results accomplished by Director Cianfoni with his musicians.

Palo Testi's "La Serenata" was appealingly offered by Miss Hortensia Daniels, Anaheim mezzo-

Here's Latest Fishing Yarn From Laguna

"He who laughs last laughs best." Arthur Watkins, of Laguna Beach, had the last laugh today.

Watkins was fishing from the Laguna Beach fishing barge. He had two poles. Whirr-r-r-r went one of his reels, and the pole described a graceful arc over the side of the barge and disappeared.

Watkins wore a long face, while far down in the sea a big yellowtail chortled, "heh, heh!"

Watkins reeled in his other line. "Guess I'll try once more," he decided.

He cast out again. Whirr, went the reel, another reel, again. Watkins was on the alert. One pole and line was enough to lose.

He tugged and pulled and finally landed a big yellowtail, weighing about 15 pounds, and lo and behold, here was his other pole and line attached to the yellowtail.

Watkins visioned a nice baked fish, his spirits rose. "Heh Heh!" he chortled.

soprano, with Madame Manuela Budrow at the piano. The rich purity of Miss Daniels' voice, expressive of depth and feeling, reveals much promise, and combined with her magnetic and picturesque personality, brought real joy to her ever-increasing admirers. Her encore, the well-loved "La Gaiety," with its plaintive haunting sadness, was truly beautiful.

Compelling and unique with weirdly gruesome effects, the novelty number—Descriptive Fantasia—"The Dance of the Goblins," by Recker-Loraine was especially interesting. Its riotous, frenzied allegro movements bringing forth well-deserved enthusiasm. Pedro Silva's "Spanish Wedding Serenade," its characteristically colorful and truly Spanish atmosphere marked by clicking of castanets and flashing rhythm, was a brief and vivid bit of artistry, followed by the request number, "Musical Moment." This well-loved trio was composed by Cianfoni.

Stimulating the imagination tremendously, and vibrating with powerful force and vitality, the grand selection from Verdi's "Aida," with its vigorous contrasts surging with triumph and victory, made stirring conclusion to a program presented with remarkable finesse and enthusiastic understanding.

Outlining next week's program, Hanson stated that another famous Overture of Rossini's will be presented at that time, with selections from Verdi's "Il Trovatore," a favorite novelty number, "Village Life," composed by Cianfoni, and vocal selections by the Lions club quartet.

Wishes Fortune Wasn't So Large

SYDNEY, N. S. W., July 28.—That he wishes the fortune bequeathed him was $50,000 instead of nearly $12,000,000, was the expression of David White, of Sydney, New South Wales, who was recently made sole heir of his uncle, an African diamond mine owner. "Being a millionaire has its disadvantages," he says. White intends to give to local charities and to remember those who were kind to him in his meager days. He is 37, and has a family with two children. Since the announcement of his good fortune, his mail has become so heavy that he moved from his modest home to an unknown address. White's father, a Jew, married an Irish girl in London, and was practically ostracized by the London Jews. To escape the unpleasant situation, White left, with 25 cents in his pocket, for Australia, working his way as steward. Since that time he has held many small jobs.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well. Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Adv.

ORANGE COUNTY THIRD OVER STATE IN TOTAL MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED IN 1926

Orange county once more occupied third place among the 58 counties of the state in the table of matrimonial statistics for 1926, just issued by the U. S. department of commerce. The total of 4927 compiled by Orange county last year in upholding its laurels as the Gretna Green of California, was exceeded by only two counties, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Orange county gained on San Francisco last year and gives promise of reaching second place, eventually. San Francisco, which had a total of 6858 marriages in 1926, gained but 180 over 1925 while Orange county gained 231. Alameda county, which contains the cities of Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley and Richmond, gained more rapidly than either Orange or San Francisco counties, its increase being 410. Alameda's 1926 total was 4563 which ranked that county fourth. Los Angeles led the state with 16,230, a gain of but 180 over 1925. San Diego was in fifth place with 2456. Riverside ranked sixth with 1876. Santa Clara county, including the city of San Jose, was seventh with 1861. Then came Sacramento with 1486 and then San Bernardino with 1433. San Mateo, the Gretna Green of the San Francisco district, had but 1114 marriages.

The "cow counties" of the remote mountain districts bothered their heads little with matrimony. Alpine and Sierra had but six each. Mono had seven and Trinity nine. Mono dropped 100 per cent in the marriage scale, having had 14 marriages in 1925. These counties likewise, were not heavily afflicted with the divorce evil. Mono had only one divorce in two years. Alpine had none. Sierra had two in 1926 and four in 1925. In Trinity county, married life was more hectic. That county reported four divorces last year and three in 1925.

Orange county divorces made a gain from 175 in 1925 to 193 in 1926. There were six annulments in this county in 1926. Marriage statistics show that 8% per cent of all the marriages in the 58 counties were performed in Orange county.

There were 56,664 marriages in California in 1926, as compared to 55,080 in 1925, which meant a slight drop in the marriage rate. The 1925 rate was 13.2 marriages per 1000 population. In 1926 the rate was 13.1. On the other hand, the divorce rate raised from 2.54 to 2.80. The state had 12,065 divorces in 1926 as compared to 10,624 in 1925.

DREW CROWDS

PARIS, July 29.—Riot squads were called to handle the crowds in front of the shop of a French dealer in handbags and shoes recently when he put a boa-constrictor in his window. Advertising snake-skin bags, his sign said: "Skins from Contented Boas-Constrictors."

INDIAN GHOST DANCE STUDIED BY SCIENTIST

BERKELEY, July 29.—A new light on California's part in the tragic ending of the American Indian's opposition to white domination has just been shed by a study of the ghost dance ceremony recently completed by Dr. Leslie Spier, professor of anthropology at the University of California summer session, and now being published by the University of Washington.

The ghost dance ceremony was connected with a religious belief that sprang up in 1870 among tribes of western Nevada that a supreme being was going to help them drive out the white man from America and restore the plains and mountains to their original state of peace and plenty, by sending back to earth legions of dead warriors and chiefs from the happy hunting ground. Dr. Spier traced the spread of this yearning for the return of the first time, from data obtained from the Klamath Indians of the extreme northern border of the state. It was this tribe that carried it over the border.

Cult Spread
He found that the cult spread as rapidly as it ever did among the plains Indians where 20 years later the last famous uprising of the Sioux and surrounding tribes resulted from it. California, he believes, escaped a general revolt fostered by the ghost dance cult only because of the gold rush, which brought hordes of white men and resulted in the partial extermination of the red men before the cult was organized.

By correlating his work with observations of other men he has outlined a map showing the path taken by the religion as it spread among the tribes. Such a work is considered very important in the study, not only of Indian religions, but of all religions. It reveals perfectly the method by which religions are developed through acquisition of new features and through combining with old features from previously existing faiths, as it spreads from people to people, just as the Christian sects have developed around the old Hebrew nucleus. It supports also the theory that persecution, injustice, and despair of help from earthly allies, are the common source of great messianic religious movements looking toward divine assistance to save a people.

Reached California
The ghost dance cult spread from tribe to tribe through northern California, Spier found, starting with the Klamath Indians and extending as far as the Wintun or Patwin of Colusa county, within three years. The ceremony in each case would be grafted on to others and then passed on, growing like a snowball rolling down hill, and would occasionally come back to some tribe through which it had already passed and be re-adopted for the sake of its new acquisitions. The Klamath Indians did just this thing after it had been accepted by the Colusa county tribes. In this same downward spread, about 1872, the cult reached tribes in the vicinity of Pleasanton and Livermore, in Alameda county.

At one time, in a paroxysm of faith, the Karok Indians of Happy Camp, near Orleans, tribal history records, received spirit messages to the effect that a myriad of their dead forefathers, with war paint and beating drums, were hovering about Mt. Shasta waiting for a psychological moment to swoop down and clear the white men off the face of the earth.

Uprising Failed
Because of their broken spirit, however, no uprising took place. The cult died down and for 20 years the Indians slept. Then it received a new impetus through a Pyramid Lake Indian of Nevada, Wawoka, or Jack Wilson as he is known on the reservation where he still lives. Wawoka is the son of the originator of the ghost dance dream. From this revival the faith spread to the north and east instead of west, and the stronger Sioux promptly went on the warpath for the last time, with the Custer massacre, the Battle of Wounded Knee and other historic battles as a result.

LECTURER AND WRITER VISITS IN SANTA ANA

Prominent among arrivals in Orange county is Mrs. Demachus Clariton Brown, well known writer, traveler and lecturer, and for the past 20 years connected with the Indianapolis News, Indianapolis. She is a house guest of Dr. Mabel V. Tremaine at the latter's ranch home in the Santa Ana canyon. She will remain here for the summer, leaving next fall on an extended trip throughout the Orient and the South Sea Islands.

Mrs. Brown is the widow of the late Dr. Demachus Clariton Brown, who, before becoming state librarian of Indiana, was professor of classical languages at Butler College. Mrs. Brown, who before her marriage was Miss Jessie Lanier Christian of Indianapolis, is herself a graduate of Butler College where she obtained her B. A. degree. Her literary efforts have been devoted principally to book reviews, travel and feature stories and staff assignments to important events. In addition to touring Europe on different occasions in search of material, she has visited Africa three times, covering both coasts from Cairo to Capetown. She is one of the few American women who have entered the African jungles following the trail of the late David Livingstone. She is thoroughly at home in Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro and other South American capitals. She is now collecting material for a series of stories on Southern California, giving special attention to its spiritual and cultural growth.

FLEES FROM BED
GLASGOW, Ky., July 29.—"Toots" is just dog, but his master, Joe Leftwich, thinks he is the smartest one in the world. Toots has a miniature bed all his own, with tick, blankets and pillow, but the other night he wouldn't retire—only trotted back and forth, whining. Investigation disclosed a flea in the bed, and, once it was killed, Toots scrambled in and slept.

HAWLEY RECALLS DAYS WHEN JACKRABBITS AND COYOTES ROAMED SANTA ANA STREETS

Commenting today on the excitement caused recently by a young jackrabbit which had the audacity to stroll up Main street, A. E. Hawley, pioneer sporting goods merchant of Santa Ana, recalled the days when rabbits and coyotes circulated freely through the center of town without creating half as much stir as this lonely jack. It was not unusual, he declared, to see a horde of coyotes in the very heart of the city.

Hawley, who has ministered to the needs of local sportsmen for the last forty years, remembers the day when one could step out on his back porch and kill enough ducks for the family supper almost whenever he chose. Marshes extended from the south up to where the Polytechnic high school now stands and were filled with all varieties of ducks, he said. Quail, rabbits and other Southern California game were plentiful and in those days a few hours instead of several days were required to bring the hunter within range of deer.

Santa Ana was at that time a town of 1500 people. Fourth street was alive with saloons, covered with dust in summer and a sea of mud in winter.

The grocer shops, doing a flourishing business, got many a dollar of the hard-earned wages of the men who were struggling to put Santa Ana on the map. Time and again I saw anxious mothers and tired wives sitting out in the rain, in wagons and buggies, while their loved ones taking one drink too many, lingered in the bar rooms and played cards or fell asleep in the back rooms," said Hawley.

However, all the men did not drink and the healthful pastime of hunting was their favorite sport. In one month during the summer, Hawley would sell more ammunition than he does in an entire year at present. That, however, was before the time of radios and other similar devices on which people now spend their money. It was easy to find plenty of game nearby and people did not have the means for travel which are enjoyed today.

And speaking of travel, Hawley, inadvertently remarked that he is going to take a vacation which has been delayed for forty years. After four decades in which he has stayed at his store every summer to see that folks who came in got just the right kind of guns, ammunition or fishing tackle for their vacation jaunts, Hawley is going to trip to the mountains himself. Mrs. Hawley, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Otto J. Hawley, 514 South Broadway, will make up the party, which will leave on August 18 for Sequoia National Park to spend the week.

If all plans materialize, Hawley and his wife will take a trip next year to his old home in Lemoyne county, Vermont, where he hopes to find his old birthplace. He came to Santa Ana in 1887, and opened a gun shop where Peterson's shoe store now stands. After moving several times, the shop was located on North Sycamore street, where it is at present.

At the time of his arrival the Santa Fe had a station here. The Santa Fe used an old box car on the site of the present station. Although there were plenty of saloons cluttering Fourth street, the merchants made every attempt to keep it clean. Every day they piled their rubbish in the middle of the street, from where a wagon would soon take it away.

Bonfires were common, especially during presidential campaigns. Feeling ran high and street fights

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Jerry Tarbot, American's "living unknown soldier," has dedicated the rest of his life to finding his name and obtaining Uncle Sam's recognition of his service in the war, has become a political issue again. It seems as if everyone in the country must have heard about Jerry's strange case and seen his photograph, but Jerry, the gassed and shell-shocked veteran who lost his health and his identity at the same time, knows there is someone, somewhere, who will recognize him eventually. An old pal, a brother, a sister—or perhaps a mother.

All of which explains why Jerry is trudging around the streets on what he promises will become a countrywide tour. His objectives are two:

1.—To leave photographs of himself on display in the vestibule of "every Catholic church in the country."

2.—To sell copies of "Jerry Tarbot's Book," his own woefully incomplete autobiography, in order to support himself and finance his quest for a name.

Sells Book for Dollar
Jerry's ambitious program of placarding the churches with his photographs in the hope that someone finally will identify him permanently and for all time has not yet begun. He is certain he is a Catholic and that he was trained in a Catholic school.

On the other hand, "Jerry Tarbot's Book" is an accomplished fact. Jerry wrote it himself and he expects to sell "at least 25,000 copies." He peddles it at a dollar a copy. It consists of about 40 pages of large, closely mimeographed sheets and is cheaply bound in stiff cardboard paper.

To assume the book reviewer's role for a moment—it is considerably more interesting than many books which cost two or three times as much.

Jerry says his chief handicap is that he can't visit more than 15 or 20 prospective customers a day. Everyone, he says, is interested, and he has to sit down and tell of his experiences. Unfortunately, the listener then sometimes refrains from buying the book.

Issue in Congress
Congressman Carter, of California,

nia, Tarbot's legislative godfather, promises to take the strange case to the floor of congress during the next session and demand justice for Tarbot such as the government has given to its other maimed and incapacitated heroes.

Carter is at swords' points with Congressman Johnson, of South Dakota, chairman of the house committee on World war veterans' legislation, over Tarbot. Johnson tried to brand Tarbot as a fake who remembered his past life very well. Two women were produced, one to say that she had known Tarbot in the past at Sharon, Pa., and the other that she had been married to him for a period of two weeks many years ago.

Jerry takes up all this in a lengthy appendix. Jerry had an idea he once lived in Sharon, and when letters and telegrams were sent there, the woman claimed to recall him as an old friend. Then, says Jerry, he came to Sharon and stood outside the woman's house. Several times she passed him, noticing him, but obviously failing to recognize him. He says he offered to try the same stunt on the "wife" but wasn't allowed to do so. The fact seems to be that

Jerry is tired of hundreds of identifications which don't seem to mean anything. The stories of the women haven't been disproved, but the "wife" told of tattoo marks on her husband that don't exist on Jerry.

Makes Plea Again War

Here is the wind-up of the 26th and last chapter of "Jerry Tarbot's Book" which follows an impassioned plea against the "hell and fury and agony" of war:

"If I last long enough, I may be able to accomplish my ambition—I may be able to dissipate the plagues which is holding the stream of life frozen and immobile. Perhaps some day I shall see again the waters flow free and serene toward the destiny of all human beings. Still swaying uncertainly to the rhythm of the Creator's power, lives yet in me the will to carry on and taste life anew. Perhaps I shall break through. If I don't—well:

"HERE'S TO OUR CORPS WHICH WE ARE PROUD TO SERVE

"Through many a strife we have fought for life
"And never lost our nerve!"

FINE, FAT WORMS

RAPID CITY, S. D., July 29.—Mr. Coolidge purposes to reduce his waistline if trudging from his car through marshy trails to trout streams can do it. He scales somewhere in the 150s. FREE LESSONS IN MUSIC TO CHILDREN IS GIVEN PRAISE

Miss Edith Cornell Says Santa Ana Progressing Along Advanced Lines

INSTRUCTION GIVEN ON ALL INSTRUMENTS

Junior High Instructor Says Many Can Employ Education in College

That Santa Ana is proceeding along the most advanced educational lines in giving its children free instrumental training in music, was indicated today in an interview by Miss Edith Cornell, music instructor of the Julia Lathrop junior high school. Pointing out the fundamental value of emotional training gained through music, Miss Cornell declared that "the spiritual awakening from such instruction motivates all other school work. Without emotional training the children can't really get much other instruction," she declared.

The value of such instruction is recognized in all the Santa Ana high and junior high schools and, under the direction of S. J. Mustol, supervisor of orchestra work, the children receive training on the various instruments. Testifying to the effectiveness of this supervision, Miss Cornell stated that children who begin their study knowing nothing about their instruments are often capable at the end of the year of group playing in orchestras which is highly commendable.

The practical value of this musical experience is evidenced, said Miss Cornell, by the fact that

SEEK STATE LEGION POSTS

Wilbur K. Getty, (left), fifth area commander of the American Legion, who is a candidate for State Commander at the Santa Barbara convention which opens next week, and Joe Plank, chief de gare of the Forty and Eight of Orange county, who seeks the office of Chief de Gare of the state at the convention.

Plank and Getty Expect Success at Meet in Santa Barbara

When the Santa Ana delegation of American Legion members and members of the Forty and Eight leave here today, tomorrow and Sunday to attend the state convention at Santa Barbara, which opens Monday, two in the party will go seeking the highest offices these two organizations have to offer, that of state commander of the Legion and chief de gare of the "40 et 8" society.

Wilbur K. Getty, at present fifth area commander of the state, and a former post commander here, is Santa Ana's candidate for state commander, while Joe Plank, chief de gare of the Forty and Eight of Orange county for the past two years, seeks the election as chief de gare for the entire state.

Both candidates have been busy for several weeks with their campaigns and on the eve of departure to the convention, are confident that they will be returned winners.

Forty and Eight plans for the convention are almost as large as those made by legionnaires from Santa Ana. A number of delegates to the convention left Santa Ana today, including Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Nussbaumer, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Struble, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Fultz, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McCalla and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Halber.

The Santa Ana delegation of both Forty and Eighters and the Legion will have their headquarters in the Cabrillo hotel, which also will serve as headquarters for the convention, and all state officers.

Two state officers of the Forty and Eight, Joe Plank, chief de train, and M. K. Beatty, sous grande conductor will leave today accompanied by their wives.

Delegates from this county at the Forty and Eight convention are: Charles Van Wyk, Z. B. West Jr., William J. Murphy, William Wieland, Ed Struble, Grover Fultz, all of Santa Ana; Frank Mason and Ted Craig, Brea; Raymond Smith, Anaheim; Henry Wallace, Orange; J. W. Colwell, Garden Grove and L. D. Reynolds.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT ASSERTS WATER BASIN SECOND ONLY TO FAMOUS HETCH HETCHY

The Prado reservoir site is the largest natural water basin in Southern California and has the greatest water supply of any water basin in this section of the state, J. B. Lippincott, Los Angeles engineer, last night told members of the Orange county Associated Chambers of Commerce at a meeting at Tustin. Water conservation was the special topic of the evening. Lippincott who has made an extensive study of the Prado dam project was the speaker.

"There is no other water basin on these waterways. Further water conservation plans were advocated by Fred B. Tuffree, of Placentia. Tuffree advocated steps to conserve water which is now allowed to flow unchecked into the ocean.

Figures given by Lippincott revealed that the Prado dam would be the second largest in the state, being smaller only than the Hetch Hetchy reservoir which supplies the city of San Francisco and surrounding territory with water. The Prado dam would have a capacity of 174,000 acre feet of water. The Hetch Hetchy has a capacity of 206,000 acre feet of water. Big Bear has a capacity of only 64,600 acre feet.

The erection of dams to conserve waters of the San Juan and Santiago creeks and the conservation of water which is now flowing unchecked into the ocean were also advocated at the meeting.

The meeting at Tustin was on the eve of the time when Orange county becomes a part of a flood control district. Today Orange county is united with San Bernardino and Riverside counties in a new California flood control district.

Lippincott was employed by Orange county supervisors to make a preliminary survey of the proposed Prado dam. He gave a number of facts and figures about the Prado dam and answered a number of general questions on the water conservation problem in Orange county.

Speakers from the floor revealed that the general sentiment of the meeting was in favor of the Prado dam project and favored immediate action on the matter. The speakers also revealed that they were in favor of action to conserve the flood waters of Santiago creek and the San Juan creek by the construction of dams

Makes Comparison

The vast extent of the project and its comparison with other water projects was shown by Lippincott. The Prado reservoir site consists of 748 square miles of mountains, 157 square miles of foothills and 580 square miles of valley, or a total of 1485 square miles. The estimated water crop is 360,000 acre feet. The Santa Ana river is the largest stream in Southern California and its huge water supply has an important bearing on the water level in Orange county by seepage, according to Lippincott. The site of the Prado reservoir is the only reservoir site south of the Tehachapi mountains which has the advantages of the Prado site, according to Lippincott. He referred to the storage capacity, cheapness of construction and geographic position of the reservoir site.

That the Prado reservoir would be one of the largest in the state is indicated in figures given by Lippincott in which he shows that the reservoir will hold approximately 174,000 acre feet of water. Big Bear reservoir holds only 64,600 acre feet, and Moreno reservoir holds 53,650 acre feet.

The cost of the Prado enterprise is set at $5,000,000, including estimates for changing roads, railroads, purchase of land and the construction of the dam.

Average Cost

The average cost of the Prado dam would be $28.70 per acre foot of storage capacity, Lippincott declared. The California state engineer's report estimating dams on six tributaries to the Santa Ana river north of Prado shows a combined storage capacity of 98,395 acre feet, an aggregate cost of $49,376,000 and an average cost per acre foot of storage capacity of $502.

One of the most important matters in the Prado dam construction is the provision of an adequate spillway, according to Lippincott. It is estimated that a total of 36,700 acre feet of water could be put underground each year by the Prado reservoir.

Benefits of the Prado dam as outlined by Lippincott reveal that the conservation of water now

CHOCOLATE MALTED MILKS PROVE MOST POPULAR SOFT DRINK REPORTER DISCOVERS

When the mercury is hovering around the 90 mark (plus of course) and stern necessity insists that you have to be about your business in the heat of the day, but relents enough to permit you to drop in at the soda fountain for a cooling drink to fortify you against the heat of the sun beating down, and the heat of the pavement beating up—what do you ask for?

Aha! I knew it. A choc malt.

You see, you don't differ so much from your fellows after all, do you?

For they are ordering choc malts too.

Listen to what John Clarkson says about it. John you know, is a champion mixer at one of the local cold drink emporiums. And John became curious as to how many chocolate malted milks he concocted in a day's time. So yesterday he started to count about the middle of the forenoon. At noon he was rushing madly from ice cream cans to electric "whizzers" and scarcely in the mood to be approached, but the intrepid questioner rushed in anyway.

"How many so far, John?" And John replied:

"Don't ask ME. I started to count as I planned, but by the time I reached forty-odd, they began coming in so rapidly that I had to give up. If I can't keep 'em going in the morning when orders are comparatively slack, it wouldn't be any use to attempt to count in the afternoon and evening. For that is when I really mix them."

"There is something about a choc malt that seems to have a general appeal. What I mean is, that it isn't just men or just women or just children that demand it—the average is about the same. It stands head and shoulders above the other milk drinks for popularity and its closest second is cherry coke."

"I have a set of steady customers that drop in at regular intervals. I never need wait to hear their orders, but as soon as I see one open the door, I lift the cover of the ice cream can and press on the trigger that shoots the chocolate in. Haven't been fooled yet, but some time when one of them feels that I am too sure of myself, he may fool me by ordering a pineapple ice cream soda or a lime freeze."

"The nicest thing about mixing them just so, is the knowledge that people return for more. Last night a group of people came in and seated themselves at the fountain. After they had given their order, one of the men told me that they arrange their drives to come to Santa Ana as often as possible, so they can have one of my choc malts. And there are several people from Anaheim and Fullerton who are numbered among our regular daily customers—they drive over about the same time every afternoon. One day they told me that they come especially for the drink. It is a thing like that that makes a person feel good, and gives him some interest in mixing the drink up to be as good as possible."

"People have their likes and dislikes. I try to remember when this chap likes a thick, creamy drink and when that one wants it thin and frothy. Recalling people's likes and dislikes isn't very much to do, and it always pleases a customer to have his preference remembered."

"The same thing applies to the coca colas. Take cherry for instance—it is the favorite—one man will want a tart snappy drink with lots of ice clinking in the glass. The next man will want it slippy and sweet, and the one with him will say 'no ice.' It's a great game to try to remember."

Now it would be nice to tell you some more of the things John said

BEACH LIGHTS FESTIVAL TO DRAW 75,000 REPORTS SAY

Special Plans Are Made To Handle Crowds Over Saturday and Sunday

THREE BANDS TO FURNISH MUSIC

Many Unique and Lighted Floats Being Entered By Civic Organizations

Advance estimates on the number of people who will witness the Tournament of Lights on the bay at Newport Beach tomorrow night, starting at 8 o'clock, places the number at between 50,000 and 75,000. Special arrangements are being made by civic workers to house clubs and societies who have indicated their intentions to the chamber of commerce of coming in a body to spend the weekend and view the tournament.

Two of the largest groups who will arrive tomorrow for the weekend and who have scheduled their week-end outing for this week on account of the payment of illumination, are the Order of Job's Daughters of Southern California and the Hollywood Optimists. The two organizations will bring nearly 1000 people. Other organizations have also signified their intentions of attending the spectacle.

The parade will form in the turning basin at the Pavilion and proceed first toward the entrance channel of the bay. It will return along the north shore of the bay and make its western terminus near Nineteenth street.

Three bands have been arranged for the procession, it was learned today. The Anaheim American Legion band, a small band organized from among the members of the Santa Ana High school band members, and ten band playing at the Rendezvous ballroom in Balboa. That one or more others may be secured for the parade was thought possible today.

J. A. Beek, general chairman, again asked that people remember that the pageant will be visible from every point along the coast highway overlooking the bay as well as from any point in the city of Newport Beach along the water front. Fireworks will be fired off at both ends of the bay. The fireworks at the upper end will be fired while the parade is winding along the channels of the lower end near the entrance and a similar display will be made at the lower end when the parade reaches the other extreme of its course.

Robert Robinson of Santa Ana who is chairman of the Balboa Angling club's committee to prepare a float for entry in the Tournament of Lights parade to be held tomorrow night, is busy working on a huge artificial fish which he plans to mount on the "Daisy," local fishing boat.

The fish will be shown on a hook and line, the other end of which will be held by a beautiful girl, according to plans. The Balboa Angling club's float is only one of the many which are in process of creation along the shores of the bay. Approximately

FORMER JUDGE SPEAKS BEFORE S. A. LIONS CLUB

At the Lions Club luncheon yesterday, which was favored by the presence of Miss Nellie Mai Chapman, the club's choice for queen of the Orange county fair, Judge F. C. Drumm, in a talk filled with dry wit, emphasized the superiority of brains over brass and declared that "there is a lot more satisfaction in wearing an old shirt which you have paid for than in having Isadore Eisenstein tear a new one off your back because the weekly rent hasn't been paid."

That there is too much buying and not enough paying, too much pretense and not enough hard work, was the central theme of Judge Drumm's talk.

Miss Chapman, who, by the way, does not affect bobbed hair, was presented to the club by Harold Yost, president, and the prediction was made that she will win the Orange county contest.

Watson Ruddy, nine year old brother of Earl Ruddy, secretary of the Business Men's association, aroused much favorable comment when he sang "Boy O' Mine" and "Mother Machree," followed by an encore, "Me and My Shadow." Young Ruddy has a pleasing voice, enjoys singing, and did much to add to the enjoyment of the luncheon.

Many members of the club are expected to take part in a stag party tomorrow night at Laguna Beach at Roy Langley's cottage there, preceded by a dinner at the White House.

ADVENTURISTS TO HOLD CONCLAVE IN SANTA ANA

Close to 5,000 members of the Seventh Day Adventist church of Orange, San Diego, Riverside, San Bernardino and Imperial counties, will meet here next month for their seventh annual encampment conference, to be held between the dates of August 11 and 21.

The entire encampment, including meeting places, offices, and quarters for the conference visitors, will be housed in several hundred tents of various shapes and sizes, located on the new fairgrounds. Decidedly military in effect by their straight alignments and uniform size are long rows of wall tents erected for the accommodation of 300 families.

The program outlined for the conference includes devotional services, lectures, talks and study periods as well as addresses by prominent speakers. Listed among the speakers is A. L. Baker, Mountain View, editor of the Signs of the Times.

Current problems, particularly those dealing with public morality law enforcement and kindred issues, inquiries revealed, are apt to be touched upon by the various speakers and made the subject of formal expressions.

These MOVIE PEOPLE

NEW YORK, July 29.—Those dramas of Manhattan crookdom that thrilled Broadway last season do little more than scratch the surface of the organized industry that takes its toll at the point of guns.

Few people, for instance, know that kings of the crime world sit back with fat bankrolls to be used in financing little raiding parties and see them through in the event a "pinch" is made. A man with a Sing Sing background to his credit, with a six shooter as his chief stock in trade, can find $50,000 or twice that much waiting for him as bond money when he steps into court for arraignment.

Of course he must pay back some day. He mustn't "sneak" on the gang, and he mustn't skip out. If he bites the hand of his feeder he would be safer in the electric chair. The code of the crime business is a simple one and direct.

A sinister business this and one dotted with prison records of the pawns. The big boys swank around Broadway, appear in the gambling dives, tie up with big bootleg rings and play the slick night club game. Their hands are clean—and manicured. Their clothes are tailored, they have the acquaintance of a certain type of politician and their tentacles stretch in many directions, thought they never appear in person and never are identified in person. They are in the background, important if not always reputable figures.

When Gerald Chapman was operating it developed that he had a call on vast sums of underworld money. No one ever completely explained the distribution of his rich spoils, which included a million-dollar mail robbery. Stolen bonds found their way into the most respectable hands and the respectable hands never knew the intricacies of the transaction. There were scores of secret emissaries below the surface who could hide him out and tide him over. He was able to penetrate the walls of Atlanta prison and disappear. His cronies in the city's quagmires were legion. Only one of them ever "squealed" and he did only when he thought Chapman dead.

The Whittemore gang, one of the most elaborate the east has known, had fortunes at its command. A sum of $50,000 could be produced on a few moments' notice and the Whittemores did not forget their "connections." A vast bail bond industry was revealed and wheels within wheels were found operating to carry on the business of making crime while you wait.

This system operates on many levels, from petty larceny to Chamberlain proportions. In the lesser gangs, particularly among the bootleg factions, terrorism is inevitable. To traffic in another's belt means hasty departure from the earth. The prosperity of a given gang is likely to bring about a war born of jealousy and an argument between gangsters is settled with a flash in the night and a corpse in the gutter.

Baker Will Train At Soper's Ranch

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—Sergeant Sammy Baker, Mineola, L. I., leaves today for Soper's ranch, Ojai, to open training for his crack at Mushy Callahan's junior welterweight crown at Wrigley field here August 29.

The title bout will find Baker a favorite over Callahan by virtue of a ninth round technical knockout scored when the pair met in Chicago early this month.

Both battlers have posted forfeits to make 140 pounds at 2 p. m. on the day of the fight.

PARTY IS FAILURE
BREMENHAVEN, July 29.—An occasion for a nice welcoming party by agents of the department of justice and the American Legion seems to have died aborning. Grover Bergdoll asked Chamberlain and Levine to sell or loan him their plane so he could fly back to New York or to sell him space with Chamberlain for a flight back. All requests were refused.

CHILDREN TO HOLD ANNUAL LANTERN FETE

Arrangements have been completed for the annual summer playground lantern parade and jubilee scheduled for next Tuesday evening, in Birch park, according to L. W. Archer, supervisor of summer playgrounds.

Children will assemble at their respective playgrounds and parade with lighted lanterns, ending the line of march at Birch park where they will enjoy a half hour of organized games. Immediately following the period of play there will be a brief exhibition of folk dancing on the bandstand by the children of McKinley playground under the direction of Mrs. William Foote, instructor at this center. This feature of the program, Archer declared, has not been especially prepared for the occasion but forms part of the regular playground activities. Parents and the public are especially invited to the park to enjoy with the children this exhibition of play and folk dancing.

The Spurgeon center youngsters, leaving their ground promptly at 7 o'clock, will march north on Main to Walnut, east on Walnut to the Roosevelt school where they will join the children at that center.

The two schools will then march north on French where they will meet the pupils from the Lincoln center at Fourth and French. The three combined playgrounds will then proceed west on Fourth street. In the meantime the children from Franklin center will come east on Fourth street and will be joined by the McKinley delegation at Fourth and Flower. These two groups will continue east on Fourth until they meet the Spurgeon-Roosevelt-Lincoln sections, and then fall into the rear of this group. With all marching units thus assembled, the parade will move west on Fourth street and south to Birch park. Motor police will escort the youngsters on their parade through the city.

Archer added that there will be close to 400 boys and girls in the parade and the effect of the lighted lanterns, all of which have been made in the playground handwork classes, should prove a novel attraction.

A free motion picture entertainment, featuring Harold Lloyd in "Girl Shy," will be given the playground group having the most lanterns carrying lighted lanterns in the parade.

OFFICERS TESTIFY FOR JAMES IRVINE

Following the closing of Mrs. James Irvine's side of the case of Irvine vs. Irvine divorce, yesterday in Los Angeles before Judge Guerin, the husband introduced traffic officers from both Orange county and Los Angeles county to prove that the wife drank intoxicating liquor and made faces at policemen.

"A woman must be drunk to make faces at a traffic officer," George Peterkin, Orange county state traffic officer said from the stand, when he explained that he had stopped Mrs. Irvine on the road one day and that she made a face at him.

Two Santa Monica officers of the road, who were called as Irvine's witnesses, testified that Mrs. Irvine was drunk in their jurisdiction on one occasion, just prior to New Year's day, 1924.

They knew she was drunk, they said, because they saw her in an argument with her spouse, taking the negative side of the question, "Shall we go home?"

Testimony will continue today when Irvine's case will be resumed. Mrs. Irvine is suing for divorce with separate maintenance, asking for not less than $1000 per month.

LA HABRA

LA HABRA, July 29.—Mr. and Mrs. H. Sold and Mr. and Mrs. S. Henry, of Pittsburgh, with Mr. and Mrs. Nick Kelch, of Pasadena, former La Habrans, were guests the first of the week at the Della Morrison home.

The Rev. and Mrs. Ray Carter, of Imperial, are spending several days with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Garretson. The Rev. and Mrs. Blaine Bronner, of Alamitos, were guests Monday evening at the Garretson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Jones and children, accompanied by the former's brother, Albro, have returned from a six weeks' stay with relatives in Arkansas.

Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Montgomery and family spent Wednesday at Huntington Beach enjoying a picnic lunch at noon after a dip in the ocean.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Morgan, with Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wright, of Orange, will leave Monday for a week's stay at Big Bear. The following week they will stay at Catalina.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Scott have returned from several days' stay at Kern river.

Mrs. Olive Bryan presided at a party birthday dinner for her husband, at her home on Main street Monday evening. Mixed garden flowers were used at the table, where a chicken dinner was served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Zumwalt and family, Miss Freda Zumwalt, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Heulet and Mr. and Mrs. Bryan and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Carlton have returned from a few days' stay at the Bob Rogers home in Highlands.

AT THE THEATERS

Anna Nilsson, star of "Easy Pickings," production now at the Yost Broadway theater.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Audiences at the West Coast-Walker theater tomorrow are due to get loads of laughs out of Hoot Gibson's characterization of a cowboy banker, the role he portrays in his latest starring vehicle, "A Hero on Horseback."

The picture is a screen version of "Bread Upon the Waters," a story from the prolific and versatile pen of the noted author of Western fiction, Peter B. Kyne, who is rated as one of the most popular novelists and short-story writers in America.

Kyne has had as colorful a career as any of the characters in his colorful tales. From clerking in a general merchandise store, the prominent creator of best sellers engaged by turns in the lumber and shipping business and as a newspaper man. In 1898 he enlisted in the 13th United States Infantry, and was a member of the 3rd Expeditionary Forces to the Philippine Islands, also serving during the Spanish-American war. During the late fracas "Over there," Kyne was a captain in the 144th U. S. Field artillery.

Kyne is the creator of the famous "Cappy Ricks" stories, written around his experiences while in the shipping business on the San Francisco waterfront. Some of his other noted novels are "The Enchanted Hill," "The Under-stander Heart," "O Promise Me," which was filmed as a starring vehicle for Hoot Gibson under the title of "The Buckaroo Kid," and many others.

In "A Hero on Horseback," Ethelene Clair, the petite titan-haired screen favorite, plays the leading feminine role opposite Gibson, while Edwards Davis, Edward Hearn and Dan Mason fill the supporting cast.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

Do you like mystery? Does your spine tingle deliciously as trap doors creak and strange figures steal through the gloom? If you do, you'll be thrilled by new mystery-drama, which opens at the Yost Broadway theater tonight.

Anna Q. Nilsson is featured and there is romance and comedy as well as mystery in this picture. The plot centers about an eccentric man of wealth who is slain. Strange manifestations in the old home of the deceased supply plenty of excitement. The heroine poses as an heiress. Part of the time she is disguised as a boy. There's love interest, and Zack Williams as the colored servant supplies much merriment.

In the same cast are such favorites as Kenneth Harlan, Philo McCullough, Charles Sellon, Billy Bevan, Zack Williams and Gertrude Howard.

YOST THEATER

Lon Chaney has triumphed again. In "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" he played "Quasimodo," who turned half-angel to save his beloved Cathedral; as "The Phantom of the Opera" he turns devil to ruin a city—for love. It is the strangest, most compelling role the famous star has ever attempted; this queer, half-mad creature about whom Gaston Leroux wrote his French Classic; it is certainly the strangest.

TEMPLE THEATER

Two features are offered at the Temple theater tonight and tomorrow.

William Haines has one of the leading parts in "The Thrill Hunter." This feature is billed as a "super-speed comedy drama." Haines is well known and liked here and deserves it as he is a versatile star of considerable personality and ability. Others in the cast are Kathryn McGuire and Alma Bennett with a support of character favorites.

Known as the Beau Brummel of the screen Conway Tearle will be seen in an entirely different role in "Morals for Men" suggested by "The Love Serum" by Gouverneur Morris. The always immaculate dresser in the first part of the picture is dressed as a waterfront hobo.

WILL INVESTIGATE INVENTOR'S DEATH

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—Expressing the belief that John H. Carson, of Glendale, had been murdered, Deputy District Attorney E. J. Dennison has announced that he is preparing to launch an exhaustive investigation into the mysterious "arsenic death" of the wealthy inventor.

Dennison declared that an analysis of the contents of the stomach revealed that there was as much as 40 grains of arsenic in the body, "enough to kill a battalion," and added that in his opinion the poison was not self administered.

Carson died in agony on July 11 and Jerome E. Walker, Glendale jeweler, who was interested in Carson's latest invention, an oil pump, declared from the witness stand at an inquest that Carson had been drinking great quantities of water from an irrigation ditch at Santa Fe Springs.

Dennison contradicted the theory that Carson's death might have been accidental by stating that his investigation refuted the belief that the poison had been imbibed in water.

Dennison said that he intended to investigate the case on the theory that Carson may have been poisoned by persons attempting to get control of the invention, which, it is said, will revolutionize the present fashion of pumping oil.

many students are able, after such instruction, to do professional work, earning their college expenses or even playing in professional organizations.

With the coming of Mustel to Santa Ana six years ago, the instrumental training began and since that time has come to be recognized as a vital part of the school work. Although a few years ago school orchestras were said to be a source of annoyance, today many cities have full symphony orchestras in their schools. The Santa Ana orchestras have appeared creditably many times before lodges, clubs and parent teachers' association functions.

There is a need here, said Miss Cornell, for someone who can devote full time in training pupils to use the various instruments. At present this must be done by teachers who devote most of their time to other work.

Piano instruction in classes of fifteen or twenty forms the backbone of actual instruction in the schools. Only pupils who are not studying under private teachers enter these classes. It is remarkable, also, that some pupils who have no piano at home on which to practice, show the most progress.

The children use a small cardboard keyboard of three octaves on which to begin their practice. As a result of their work students who have exceptional talent are discovered and every effort is made to have them placed under private tutors for special instruction.

The piano classes were organized over a year ago, the method of instruction being known as the melody way. It has proved very effective, said Miss Cornell, in revealing the abilities of pupils along musical lines. Otto Messner, of Los Angeles, originated this plan of teaching. It has been used particularly in the elementary schools, which do not have the orchestras.

Until ten years ago, vocal music was the only kind taught in schools. Children were taught to read and sing music but the instrumental side was not touched. Only in recent years has instrumental work received the attention of educators. As a result scores of cities are giving class lessons in piano, violin, cornet, clarinet, and other orchestra instruments.

Every year the high school orchestras of Orange county gather at one of the schools for a day of music. While the playing is not competitive, the Santa Ana orchestra has always ranked very high among the school musical organizations of the county.

Guatemalan Envoy Battles For Life

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Senor Francisco Sanchez Latour, Guatemalan minister to the United States, apparently was winning a battle against death at Emergency hospital here today with a bullet wound below the heart. His wife, at his bedside, told the United Press he had dropped an old pistol on a table in his study at 12:30 a. m., and that it "broke into pieces," discharging a bullet into his breast. It was purely an accident, she said. Physicians asserted the wound was not deep, the bullet having passed out through his side. It missed the lung and principal arteries, they added. The minister was "fairly comfortable," conscious and able to speak and should recover, barring complications.

wasted every year, estimated at the price of irrigating water, $15 per acre foot, would be $300,000. It is estimated that 20,000 acre feet of water is annually wasted. The annual flood damage is set at $100,000. This would be eliminated. The estimated value of the regulated gravity of the water on pumping would amount to $435,000, which would mean a total gross benefit of $835,000. The total maintenance cost is estimated at $300,000 which would leave a total net benefit of $535,000.

There are 100,000 more acres of land in Orange county available to development if water were supplied, Lippincott declared.

His report to the chamber of commerce last night follows:

Lippincott Report

"The drainage basin of the Santa Ana river above the Prado reservoir site consists of 748 square miles of mountain, 157 square miles of foothills and 580 square miles of valley, or a total of 1485 square miles, exclusive of the basin of the Temecula river above Lake Elsinore. The estimated gross annual water crop from this area is 360,000 acre feet. The Santa Ana river at Prado is the largest stream in Southern California. The flow at this point is made up in part of flood waves that proceed from the upper drainage basin and of a remarkably regular additional flow consisting of the seepage and return waters from the valley areas above Prado which absorb a portion of the flood waters and also release a substantial quantity of underflow from the irrigated areas."

"The U. S. Geological Survey has measured the flow of the river near the Prado reservoir since 1920. Prior to that time a great number of separate measurements were made by the late H. Clay Kellogg, which have been kindly placed at the disposal of the writer by his son. From all of these records it is estimated that the mean annual flow at Prado reservoir site amounts to 153,000 acre feet per annum. The consumptive use in the upper basin, due principally to irrigation, is estimated at 207,000 acre feet applied to 150,000 acres of land. This area is comparable to the 120,000 acres of land estimated to be irrigated in Orange county in 1925. On this basis the actual consumptive use of water on the irrigated areas amounts to 1.38 feet in depth per annum. This figure is exceedingly difficult of exact determination. It has been studied by other engineers independently who arrive at quite similar results. The estimates of the state engineer's office for the water crop from the surrounding mountains closely check those of the writer, but the state engineer has not yet presented his estimate of the flow at Prado."

Co-operative Plan

"In determining the respective rights of the different portions of this drainage basin to this water supply, whether it be flood flows or regulated discharges, the priority of beneficial use is the governing factor. This point should be well borne in mind. It is highly desirable that a friendly co-operative plan should be developed for the entire drainage basin of the Santa Ana river. Up to the present time the conservation has consisted in spreading water on the gravel beds in San Bernardino county. This work has been growing rapidly in extent during the past few years. Orange county gets some of the benefits resulting therefrom. As long as flood waters waste into the sea, at least morally there may not be valid grounds for objecting to this process. If, however, Orange county expects to get the benefit of conserving flood waters in the Prado reservoir site, it will be necessary to act with some reasonable degree of promptness in so doing."

"When the available water supply, storage capacity, geographic position and cheapness of construction is considered, there is no other reservoir site south of the Tehachapi mountains that equals the Prado site on the Santa Ana river. It was surveyed for Orange county by Mr. Rowe and his survey checked by a second survey made by the state Engineer's office. With a maximum depth of water at the reservoir site of 70 feet, a storage capacity of 174,000 acre feet can be obtained. In order to give some yardstick by which the storage capacity of this reservoir can be judged, it is estimated that the mean annual flow at Prado reservoir site amounts to 153,000 acre feet per annum. Leo Tiede, Santa Ana, who has been appointed official photographer for the Forty and Eight from here.

Almost 100 members of the Forty and Eight from Orange county are expecting to attend the convention, according to a statement made by Mark Todd, correspondent of the organization who said that the "boxcar," painted Orange and green, would be taken along, loaded with fun making paraphernalia which will be used during the parade on the final day of the convention, next Wednesday.

The Orange county unit of the Legion's secret society has spent several hundred dollars to be used in unique ways to advertise Orange county at the convention and according to Todd, nothing is being left undone by the local volunteers of the Forty and Eight to fun and general interest at the convention. The Orange county volunteers are nationally known as one of the liveliest volunteers in the entire country.

Most of the some 75 Legionnaires who will attend the convention will leave here tomorrow and Sunday.

COUNTY P.-T. A. HEAD OPPOSES BLOCK BOOKING

Asserting that no small part of the juvenile delinquency problem now facing America, not only adding expense to the taxpayers for additional corrective agencies but turning thousands of boys and girls into the channels of crime, may be traced to the suggestive powers and influence of undesirable motion pictures, Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, Garden Grove, president of the Fourth (Orange county) District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, today voiced her approval of the recent order of the Federal Trade Commission, restraining certain motion picture producers from employing the system of block-booking, namely, leasing films in a block or group. Under this system, it is claimed, local theaters are compelled to take all pictures in a group or block, or none at all, without regard to the character of the pictures or the wishes of the local theater management.

It is a recognized fact in educational circles that the motion picture film is a most effective agency in teaching young people. Mrs. Kelsey declared, stressing its unlimited possibilities for character building. In every way lessons by the film, or even by lantern slides, seem to be more accurately and clearly remembered than the same lessons taught orally, she added. "The film is more than a passing entertainment, it is a lesson learned through the eye, carrying with it a lasting impression."

The P.-T. A. official pointed out, however, that the motion picture can never replace the reading of good books and that other phase of true education—the training to think, to reason and to arrive at right conclusions in the matter of human conduct.

Educators all over the United States and in foreign countries have come to the conclusion that a good picture, portraying what there is best in the human mind, has a decided advantage in character building and other educational undertakings. A child will get more good from one film of the right sort, Mrs. Kelsey went on, than from reading a book from cover to cover. But the thing is to get the right kind of film, she added.

According to the Orange county P.-T. A. executive, the subject of block-booking of films, with attendant complaints against undesirable pictures, is one that arrested the attention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers association about two years ago and was taken up at the national convention held last year in Austin, Texas. The findings of the national body, Mrs. Kelsey stated, were similar to those set forth in the order of the Federal Trade Commission, namely, it destroys the freedom of exhibitors to choose according to their judgment and taste, films for exhibition and to exhibit only such films that in their opinion are meritorious and acceptable to their patrons.

Conscious of the fact that today the motion picture is the most formidable weapon in moulding the minds of young people, either for good or for bad, the larger units of Parent-Teacher organizations have special committees on this phase of education, Mrs. Kelsey declared.

In conclusion, Mrs. Kelsey took pains to point out that the various units of the Fourth (Orange county) District Parent-Teacher associations have had the willing co-operation of local motion picture exhibitors who have done their best to show nothing but acceptable pictures.

YOUTH IN PRISON INHERITS FORTUNE

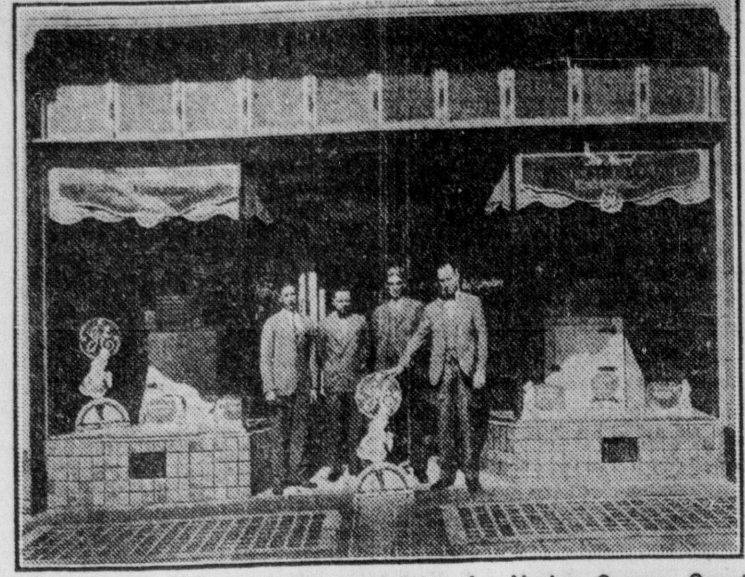

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—Earl Slane Price, 23 years old, whose desire for expensive things caused him to steal an automobile, now has a fortune in his own name but must spend one to five years in San Quentin prison before he can enjoy it.

Several days ago, still an inmate in the county jail here, he was left a fortune by his mother. The value of the estate is unknown, but said to be large.

Claiming that Price could now buy anything he desired and would never have the urge to steal again, attorneys asked probation for him, but this was denied by Judge Carlos Hardy.

The young man, whom testimony revealed was scourged by the desire to possess and spend, is going to possess a number and from one to five years in San Quentin.

REFRIGERATOR AGENCY SHOWN

This is the new salesroom of Wm. Le Vecke, Orange County distributor for G. E. Electric Refrigerators, which opens tomorrow in the Yost Broadway Theater Building. In the foreground are Wm. Le Vecke, V. E. Meredith, E. C. Reed and H. A. Gauer, members of the Le Vecke organization.

NEW GENERAL ELECTRIC'S REFRIGERATOR MECHANISM SEALED AND IS FOOLPROOF

The General Electric refrigerator, made by the General Electric company, is claimed to be one of the most simple in construction and most efficient refrigerators in use. The problem of electric refrigeration is, it is pointed out by Wm. LeVecke, head of the local organization, primarily an electrical problem and consequently was not entirely solved until an electric company entered the field.

The "G. E." has been experimenting with the refrigerator for the past sixteen years, but only in the last few years was the product put on the market. This product is a unit-built machine with all parts made to work in unison.

The fact that all parts are hermetically sealed is one of the principal features. The motor and all working parts are enclosed and airtight so that no dust can reach them. It is also self-oiling, since none of the oil in the motor can escape or become useless for lubrication on account of dust or dirt. The oil circulates through the coils with the refrigerant and never requires replenishing.

There are no belts or pulleys to get out of order since the pump and the compressor for the refrigerant are run directly off the shaft of the motor. Stuffing boxes are also eliminated. In most refrigerators new stuffing has to be put in as often as every six months, but with the G. E. machine, the airtight sealing for the working parts is never broken.

It is also a source of pleasure to housewives to know that the machine is exceedingly quiet in operation. A person standing three feet distant can hardly distinguish the sound of the motor.

Another source of protection against trouble is that the machines are completely adjusted at the factory and are ready to be put into use before they are shipped. A two-year guarantee insures it against any mechanical defects for two years.

The inside of the cabinet is finished with vitreous enamel and the freezing chamber is always sanitary. Ice cream can be made or cubes of ice frozen by the use of the tray in the freezing chamber.

MARINETTES MAY SMOKE AT POSTS

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The right to smoke cigarettes while sitting at their desks has been extended to women employees of the marine corps but not a single one was observed exercising the new privilege.

For some time it has been an open secret that some of Uncle Sam's women employees occasionally slip away from their desks to enjoy a secret puff and Brig. Gen. Rufus H. Lane, adjutant inspector of the marine corps, after declaring he would rather have employees smoke in the open rather than in secret, posted an order.

"Women in this office may smoke at their desks if they want to."

ELECTRIC FIRM TO SPECIALIZE IN G. E. COOLER

Sales experience, executive ability and electrical knowledge are represented in the personnel of the firm of Wm. Le Vecke company, which opens tomorrow with the complete line of General Electric refrigerators. The organization is headed by Wm. Le Vecke who was formerly connected with the Consolidated Ice and Cold Storage company with plants in Fullerton and Anaheim. Le Vecke was one of the organizers of this company. Elmer C. Reed and Harold Gauer will handle the sales department for the new concern.

PENN'S TRANSFER TO SERVE NEW CONCERN

The Penn's Transfer, 417 N. Broadway, do all the transfer work for the General Electric Company. The firm specializes in moving, packing and storing of office furniture, pianos and household goods.

COPE ELECTRIC COMPANY HANDLES WIRING

Cope Electric Co., 111 N. Sycamore, handled the wiring and fixture contract for the new Wm. Le Vecke store. A large number of outlets were put in so that every G. E. refrigerator on the sales floor may be seen in actual operation.

FARM CENTERS WILL EXHIBIT AT 1927 FAIR

What two farm community centers of Orange county will represent the county in the specialized and diversified classes of the agricultural division at two leading southern California fairs this fall, Orange county producers were asking today.

First according to S. W. Slabaugh, producers of the county will show in the two classes at the Orange county fair, September 5 to 10, and the winners will have the honor of representing Orange county at the Riverside and Pomona agricultural expositions. The winner in the diversified farming class will take the exhibit to the Riverside fair, September 27, and the community placing first in the specialized class will show at the Los Angeles county fair at Pomona, September 20.

The announcement, following completion of plans to have fair winners here, exhibit at Pomona and Riverside, received an immediate response from various quarters of the county. While others are to follow, Slabaugh said, the following communities have announced their entry: Garden Grove, Anaheim, La Habra, Orange, Olive, Capistrano, Buena Park, Yorba Linda, and Newport Beach.

CLISBY STOPS HOUSE

PASADENA, July 29.—Neil Clisby, Redlands negro heavyweight, kayaked Mack House, Los Angeles negro, after one minute and eleven seconds battling in the first round here last night.

The Penn's Transfer is equipped to give prompt, efficient transfer service on piano moving, office furniture and general transfer, packing, etc.

We wish to congratulate the General Electric Company and Wm. LeVecke Co. on the opening of the new place tomorrow.

Now—Simplified Electric Refrigeration

After fifteen years of research and development, General Electric has produced a refrigerator —quiet—economical—trouble-free!

For fifteen years the goal of endeavor in the vast laboratories of General Electric was to produce an Electric Refrigerator that would be extremely simple and free from trouble.

Sixty-four specialized engineers cooperated in this important task. Thousands of refrigerators of nineteen different types were built, field-tested and improved.

It was an electrical problem. It has now been solved by the world's outstanding group of electrical experts...in the laboratories of General Electric.

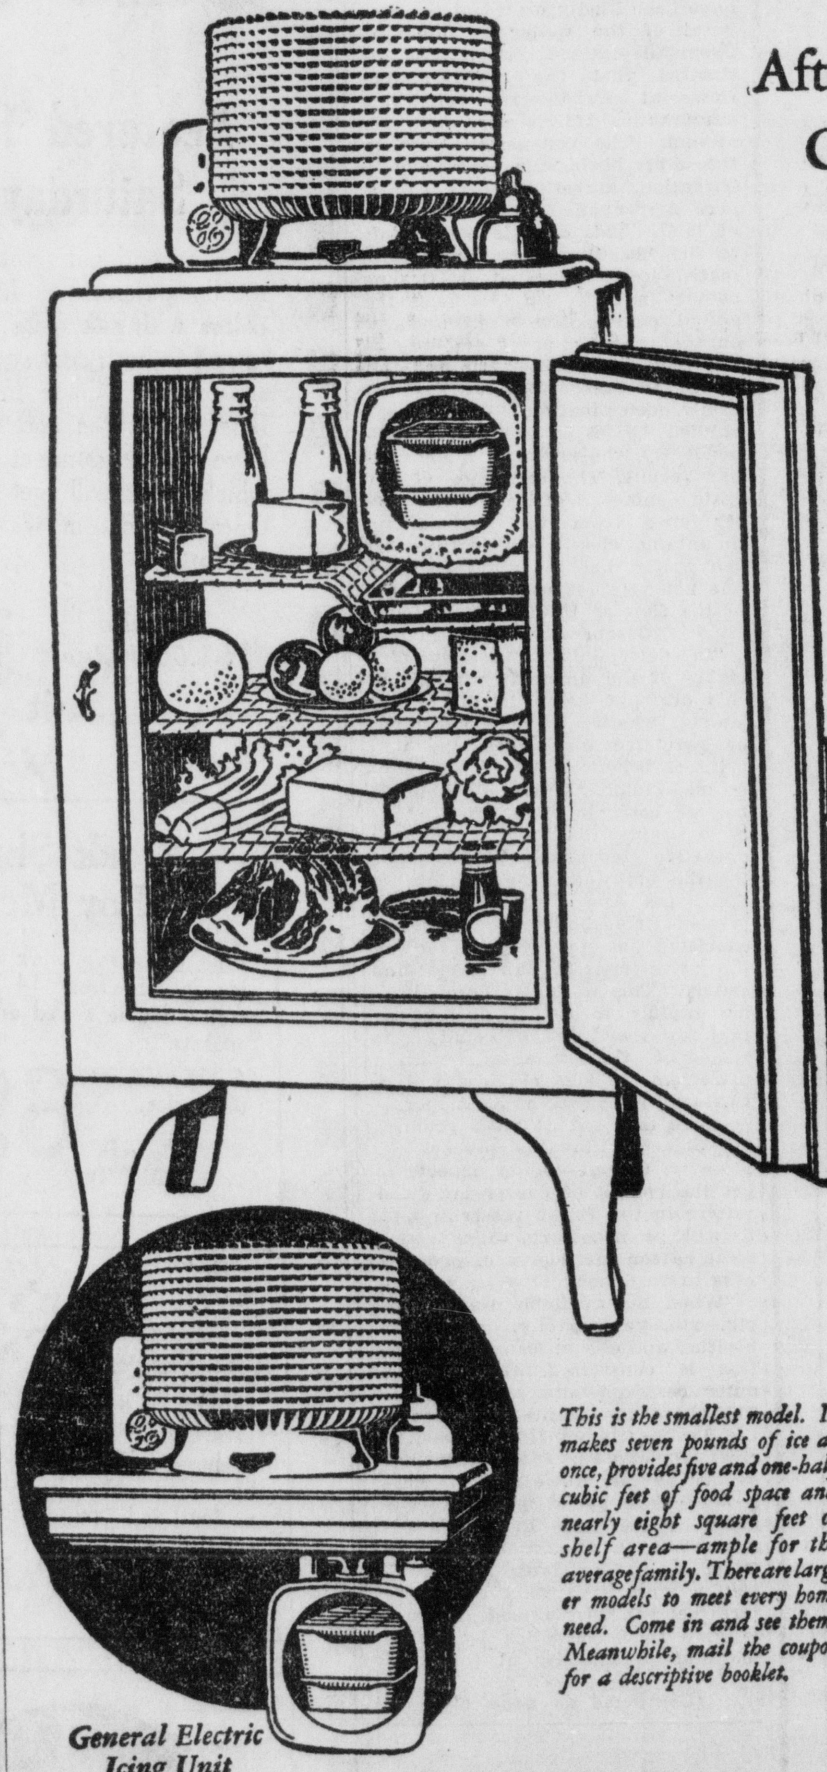

Outstanding advantages

It consumes very little current. It keeps the most uniform temperature. It is really silent—three feet away you can hardly hear it. It never needs oiling—never needs attention of any kind.

All its moving parts are enclosed in an hermetically sealed housing on top of the cabinet. It has efficiency sealed in—and trouble sealed out.

Every unit is assembled in a dust-proof room—like the mechanism of the most precise scientific instruments. Every step is tested. The refrigerating fluid and a permanent supply of oil are sealed in. More tests are made. And, once it leaves the factory, no one has any further assembling to do. The icing unit is merely lowered into the top of the refrigerator—and plugged into a convenience outlet. Instantly it works.

Guaranteed by General Electric

General Electric Icing Unit

This is the smallest model. It makes seven pounds of ice at once, provides five and one-half cubic feet of food space and nearly eight square feet of shelf area—ample for the average family. There are larger models to meet every home need. Come in and see them. Meanwhile, mail the coupon for a descriptive booklet.

Santa Ana

ervoir may be compared, the following list is presented:

"Big Bear reservoir, 64,600 acre feet, Hetch Hetchy, which is to supply the city of San Francisco, 206,000 acre feet, Henshaw reservoir on the San Luis Rey, 164,000 acre feet, Sweetwater reservoir, 31,200 acre feet, Moreno reservoir, 53,680 acre feet, Prado reservoir, 174,000 acre feet.

Engineer Estimates

"All of these other reservoirs have much higher dams than that proposed for Prado. The California state engineer's office has surveyed and estimated upon six reservoir sites on the principal tributaries of the Santa Ana river above Prado. Their combined capacity is 98,395 acre feet, their estimated aggregate cost would be $49,376,000, the average cost per acre foot of storage $502. These figures are comparable with the capacity of the Prado reservoir of 174,000 acre feet which has been estimated to cost $5,000,000 or at the rate of $28.70 per acre foot of storage capacity. In other words, the capacity of the Prado reservoir is 1.8 times as great as the combined capacity of the six sites in the upper Santa Ana and but 10 per cent of their estimated cost. The cheap storage per acre foot in any of these sites is over 12 times as great as that of Prado and the average cost per acre foot of storage is over 17 times as great.

"Because the bedrock and abutments at the Prado site consist of soft sandstone and earthen dam is estimated upon. It is proposed to put a concrete core wall in the center of the dam down into this bedrock and build it up some 10 feet or 15 feet above the present stream bed elevation. The earthen dam will be made probably by the hydraulic fill process, that is the soils will be washed down from the sides of the mountain and the material deposited at the upper and lower toe of the dam. By this process the finer material will be carried in the form of clay to the center of the dam and the coarser materials will be deposited near the two outer slopes. There are six dams of this type that have been built as a portion of the Los Angeles Aqueduct. The Henshaw Dam at Warner's Ranch and the Thompson Dam at Catalina Island and Wohlford Dam at Escondido were all built in a similar manner. The writer was connected with the construction of all of these dams. Many other dams of a similar type have been built in California.

Locates Orange

"At the time the Orange County report was written in 1925 no explorations had been made for bedrock at the Prado site and it was therefore clearly stated in the report that the estimate given must be considered as preliminary and for the purpose of determining the general desirability of proceeding with further plans. In this estimate a depth to bedrock of 50 feet was assumed on an average across the canyon. The state engineer's office since that time has explored the dam site with diamond core borings and found a maximum depth to bedrock of 84 feet. At other places in the section it was less than 50 feet. The general bedrock condition is more severe than originally estimated upon but it is not prohibitive.

"It is proposed to have the lower 81,500 acre feet of capacity in the Prado reservoir under control with outlet gates in order that water may be conserved and held over as desired in this portion of the reservoir. Above these levels it is proposed in the 1925 report to have permanent openings which will control 92,500 acre feet of the capacity of the site for floor regulation purposes. If the entire reservoir site were used for conservation then the shore and violent floods might be discharged into a full reservoir causing greater waste through the spillway than is desired. The top of the reservoir would be at elevation 530 feet above sea level where a large spillway capacity should be provided for. This spillway would very seldom be put in service but for a dam of this type it is vital that such a spillway should be provided and it should be of such great capacity that no overflow of the dam would be possible. The upper face of the dam would be paved with concrete.

Underflow Slight

"The underflow at the Prado damsite probably does not exceed 200 or 300 miner's inches. Such regulated flow discharge from the Prado reservoir would be into the present channel of the river a short distance below the dam. This naturally would fill all the voids of the sand and the gravel in the bed of the canyon below the dam, giving the same condition therein as we have at present. The conserved water from the reservoir can either be discharged into the channel of the river and diverted by the existing canals as at present or if it is found desirable the present canals could be continued up the canyon to the reservoir site. The effect in either case on the underflow in the canyon would be much the same.

"During wet and normal years it is estimated that 120,000 acre feet of conserved water would annually be stored in the Prado reservoir site. However, during cycles of dry years this full amount would not be so supplied. The average amount through both wet and dry cycles that could be furnished is estimated at 111,000 acre feet. The State Engineer's office has made an elaborate study of the rate at which water should be used during different months of the year for irrigation. This is called the 'ideal use.' At the present time about 40,000 acre feet of water per annum is being diverted from the lower Santa Ana river, of which only 24,000 acre feet are diverted in accordance with this rate of ideal use. The beneficial regulation due to the conservation feature of this reservoir would therefore amount to about 67,000 acre feet. An average of about 20,000 acre feet per annum of flood water is now passing to the sea. This could be conserved. Of the water that passes through the flood control portion of the reservoir it is estimated that this could be regulated to a maximum discharge of 2000 second feet which all could be absorbed in the natural channel of the river and on spreading grounds. It is estimated that 36,700 acre feet per annum could be put underground by spreading. The total amount of this conservation by spreading during the past 29 years would have aggregated about 1,000,000 acre feet.

Available to County

"The manner in which this reservoir would be used for conservation and spreading of water cannot be prescribed by the writer. The impression that he has, however, is that the rights of the canal companies to divert water for the 12 months of the year would be recognized and their water regulated so as to deliver all of it during the period of ideal use and that as much as possible of the additional waters should be put underground by spreading so as to make them broadly available to the county.

"The estimated cost of the Prado reservoir including 1000 acres of spreading grounds has been at $5,000,000. This item includes the reconstruction of highway, the railroad and the change in other utilities. The most uncertain factor in this estimate is the question of the value of the reservoir lands. These estimates have not been reviewed as yet since the bedrock explorations and consequently will be modified. The State Engineer has not yet given an estimate as to the cost of the dam. In providing a bond issue it is recognized that these figures should be very liberal.

"The suggestion has been made that if the Prado reservoir is built that a portion of the water impounded therein may escape by percolation through the pass south of Pomona and down San Jose creek to the San Gabriel river. This is entirely impossible because the maximum elevation of the water in the Prado reservoir will be 530 feet and the elevation of the ground water at the summit of this pass south of Pomona is 500 feet, or 270 feet higher than the highest level that you will attain in the reservoir.

"One of the principal benefits of the Prado reservoir will consist in its regulation of the floods. The greatest flood of which we have any definite knowledge is that of 1916 when it is stated that a discharge of 45,000 cubic feet per second occurred through the canyon of the lower Santa Ana. During this maximum flood the Prado reservoir would have reduced the discharge below the dam to 5800 cubic feet per second. This would involve a waste of some 3000 cubic feet per second into the sea. All other floods of which we have any knowledge for a period of the last 30 years would have been completely regulated so no waste into the sea would have occurred. The United States Geological Survey has written the history of the flood of 1916 in which it is stated that in Orange county there were four lives lost and the damage is estimated at $920,500.00. If such a flood occurred under the present state of development of the county, these damages would be much greater.

Benefits Outlined

"The following effort has been made to determine the benefit that would result from the building of the Prado reservoir:

"Annual benefits of proposed plan—Conservation of water now wasting into the sea—$20,000 a f., at $15 per acre foot, $300,000.

"Estimated annual flood damage eliminated, $100,000.

"Estimated value of regulated gravity water on basis of cost of pumping from underground reservoir, 96,000 acre feet, at $4.53, $435,000. Total gross annual benefit, $835,000.

"Annual cost of project—Interest and bond redemption on $5,000,000, at 5 per cent, $250,000. Maintenance, operation and depreciation, $50,000. Total annual cost, $300,000. Annual net value of benefits, $535,000.

"A number of elaborate plans have been suggested for conserving the waters of the Santa Ana basin. It has been stated that this could be largely accomplished by forestation. The United States Forest Service and various local organizations during the past 20 years have been trying to reforest our mountain areas. Our region is of such an arid nature with such long and hot summers that it is well nigh impossible to accomplish to any substantial extent. There is very little to show for this effort. Fire protection emphatically is most desirable and by far the most beneficial forestation work that we can do. I do not consider it possible for us to control the floods of the Santa Ana river by any forestry policy that is at all feasible.

Conserves Waters

"The work of conserving water by spreading at the mouths of the mountain canyons is very effective and economical. On the cone of the Santa Ana alone, east of Mentone, an average of 16,000 acre feet a year has been put underground at a very low cost. Other works have been equally successful but smaller in extent. Such a process, however, while beneficial cannot control major floods and it is not attempted.

"The benefits of the proposed conservation by spreading by the Tri-Counties Flood Control association in the high mountains, financed by the three counties, have not yet been demonstrated. It appears quite clear, however, that the beneficiaries will be the users of gravity water in the Redlands and Highlands area and the power plants in the canyon of the Santa Ana river, and that the benefits to Orange county by this work will be remote.

"It has been demonstrated that the diversion of flood waters on the debris cone of the Santa Ana river in the San Bernardino area has resulted in the storage of substantial quantities of water underground where it is practically free from evaporation losses and which is of advantage directly or indirectly, particularly to irrigated areas in San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

Spreading on Cone

"The spreading on the debris cone would also be of substantial benefit to irrigators in Orange county, due to increased return water to the river from irrigation in the Riverside area, provided such water is permitted to flow by percolating back to the channels of the river above the diversion points of the Orange county canals. If, however, the waters which normally would so return to the Santa Ana river are intercepted in their course and diverted, the amount of such normal benefit will manifestly be radically reduced and the advantage to Orange county of the spreading operations largely if not completely nullified.

"Since the spreading operations were started in 1911, there has been a gradually increasing draft on these ground water supplies in Riverside county, which, if continued, will with certainty reduce the flow of the river available to Orange county.

Levees Unsatisfactory

"The building of levees to control flood waters is unsatisfactory, first, because it restricts the percolation of the flood underground, and second, because the channel between the levees invariably fills with debris and thus increases the danger of the ultimate breaking of the levees. A levee system contemplates projecting the floods into the sea, which is the reverse of a conservation policy which should be followed.

In addition to the Santa Ana river, the San Joaquin river in the southern portion of the county is estimated to discharge annually approximately 6000 acre feet of water into the sea. This water is most urgently needed for the service of the irrigated lands near San Juan Capistrano and also for the rapidly developing coastal region extending from San Clemente to Laguna Beach. A reservoir site exists in this drainage basin which apparently should be utilized to control these flood waters.

"Santiago creek has an estimated annual discharge of 8000 acre feet which frequently occurs in the nature of destructive floods. A storage reservoir site exists on Santiago creek which it is stated is of decided economic importance.

"In the northern portion of the county violent floods occurred during last February in Brea canyon and Olinda creek. All of these streams should be given consideration in any extensive flood control program for Orange County.

Water from Wells

"Relative to the existing condition of the water supply of Orange county, investigations made largely by the American Chamber of Commerce in collaboration with the Orange County Farm Bureau work have shown that 81 per cent of the water utilized in Orange County comes from wells. Judging from the amount of power consumed in these pumping operations these extractions have increased 300 per cent in 10 years. This has resulted in a lowering of the water plane. The artesian area on the Coastal Plain which in 1888 covered 315 square miles, in 1925 had been reduced to 55 square miles. The average drop in the water level on the Coastal Plain during the past 28 years has been 21.2 feet per year. The estimated overdraft on your water supplies we have graded at 40,000 acre feet per year. At the same time this shrinkage in the supply is occurring, the population of the county is rapidly growing. In 1890 it was 13,559, in 1920 it was 61,375. The urban population alone of the county in 1925 is estimated at 60,000. The irrigated area in Orange County in 1889 was 31,815 acres. In 1909 it was 55,056 acres. In 1920 it was 87,330 acres. In 1925 this area has been estimated at 120,000. It is very apparent from these figures that it is essential to conserve all water supply of the county possible in order to preserve the development which has now occurred. If such conservation works are fully carried out and a more economical use of water is practiced, it is believed that the area now being irrigated can be maintained. However there is 100,000 acres more of land in Orange County that could be developed if the water supply were available for it.

One Opportunity

"The one opportunity remaining for a water supply in addition to the local amounts will be from the Colorado river. These waters will be very high priced as compared to the water that you are now using. They will, however, be available at prices which will permit of their domestic use. The Prado reservoir site in the judgment of the writer, should be a terminus for the Colorado River Aqueduct. By utilizing it the surplus winter waters that would be discharged through this conduit could be held over for the peak summer demand which would thus enormously increase the efficiency of the aqueduct. It would also furnish the opportunity of having a great reservoir supply on the coast available in case of an interruption in service in this line. Its geographic position and elevation are excellent for such use. In case Prado is so used its capacity would have to be increased and provision should be made for this at the time of construction of the Orange County project. The coming of the Colorado River water in all probability will not be at an early date and its availability should not in any event interfere with the building of the Orange County project.

"In conclusion it may be stated that the available water supply is the measure and the limit of the development of all portions of Southern California. The value of water is practically whatever it costs. It is the one commodity that is an absolute necessity to both animal and vegetable life. The right to it is determined by the priority of beneficial use. The difficulty of obtaining it is increasing rapidly from year to year. Those who delay in acquiring this opportunity will find in a very short time that the door has been closed to their efforts.

COME DRIVE WEEK

This is nation wide "Come Drive Week" for new Nash cars. Mr. C. W. Nash wants every one that is interested in purchasing a new car to drive the new series Nash. This is a very good idea and if we can get the people to do that there will be more new Nash owners. I would like to have every one that needs a good used car to come to O. A. Haley's, pick out a car that fits their need and drive it. There will be more used cars bought from O. A. Haley Inc. than from any other place. Each and every car is put into condition to warrant the price we ask for it. Come drive.

Today's Offerings

NASH LIGHT SIX SEDAN

Finished in a beautiful gray-green color that polishes like new. Easy for a woman to drive and an ideal car for small family. It has been thoroughly and completely overhauled mechanically and is in first class condition. The tires are all good balloons and included in the bargain price of $895 are front and rear bumpers, spare tire and other essential accessories. We don't believe it could be duplicated anywhere at our sales price. O. A. Haley Inc., 415 Bush. Phone 898.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN

Special Six 5 passenger sedan in wonderful condition throughout. The upholstery is a fine grade of mohair velvet that shows very little wear. The finish is in maroon and is in excellent condition. The car is equipped with many of the latest features. $1450. On display at 415 Bush. O. A. Haley Inc., Phone 898.

MAXWELL TOURING

Here is a car that is in excellent mechanical condition. Our service department has just installed new connecting rod bearings and universal joints along with other repairs. The car is finished in a nice shade of blue duco that polishes like new. Upholstery and top show little wear; tires are all good and included in the equipment are bumpers, spare tire, wind shield wiper, and many other features of equipment. A real bargain at $150. Come drive.

Ostrich Plumes
On New Parasols

PARIS, July 29.—Parasols fringed with ostrich are no novelty in Paris, but sunshades which are covered with long shaded plumes have just made their appearance. The plumes used for them are from 18 to 24 inches long and placed so that the curved ends droop over the edge of the sunshade. Ostrich covered handbags are shown as companion pieces for the parasols.

MOVE TO UNITE
TEUTONS STIRS
FRENCH FEARS

PARIS, July 29.—Out of the political calm of the last few weeks a situation is developing in Central Europe that threatens an international storm of considerable intensity. France is watching with anxiety and the nations of the Little Entente, France's allies, are watching nervously the slow evolution of Austria into everything but an actual territorial part and parcel of Germany.

The open campaigns that have been going on in Austria for "Anschluss," as the projected union is termed, have reached such proportions that doubt has begun to creep into allied chancelleries as to whether the St. Germain treaty is not being flouted and the Austrian government itself, if not already powerless to prevent it, is willing to ignore the consequences.

PAN FU SEEKS
CLASS STRIFE

PEKING, July 29.—Pan Fu, the prime minister, today received the press and announced an unimpeachable program for the new government. Beside eliminating communism, the government, he said, aimed at a reform of the administration and an improvement in the condition of the people.

Owing to the deplorable disintegration that has made China today a body of military feudal states instead of a united single entity, unity of government activity has disappeared, and many provinces have become virtually independent. In order to prevent commanders from using armies as personal property he hoped that payment of the forces in the future would be effected through the central government, thus removing one of the principle obstacles to unity.

New Departments
It is interesting as a sign of the times that in this sanctuary of feudalism the new relations between capital and labor are beginning to be recognized. Hence the creation of new departments of government, one for industry and another for agriculture and labor. By attending to the needs of the working class, it is hoped, to avoid the development of a struggle between the classes. Economy is being undertaken in the administration, and already there is much heartburning in the ministries by the abolition of sinecures and a reduction in the numbers of superfluous officials.

News Unreliable
There is no military news of a trustworthy character, but much interest centers in the alleged doings of Feng Yu-hsiang. Reports from the south state that he has cemented an alliance with Chiang Kai-shek, has denounced the communists, has advised the Wuhan government to go hat in hand to Nanking, and has even demanded, metaphorically, the head of Borodin. Considering what the communists have done for him, as shown in the ample evidence found in the soviet embassy compound here, it will be surprising indeed if Feng has double-crossed his bolshevik friends to the extent implied.

Chang Tso-ling, in his capacity of generalissimo, is taking up his quarters in the presidential palace, together with his family. This does not look as if he contemplated having to leave Peking shortly.

CHIC RETAINED IN SPORTS CLOTHING

PARIS, July 29.—The increasing interest accorded golf by Frenchwomen is naturally responsible for increasingly attractive clothes for the occasion, and a visit to any of the golf clubs in the environs of Paris offers many ideas for sports wear.

One's first impression is that Frenchwomen refuse to accede entirely to the utilitarian garments considered good form in England; and although the smartest women choose jersey and tweed for cool weather, even these are brightened by gay scarfs and hats, while for summer, silk crepes and linens compete with woollens.

A French golf course is decidedly colorful. The two-piece garment is the rule and, all spring, jumpers, skirts and cardigans have made a popular combination. With the advent of summer, the cardigan has been discarded, and the jumper, as well as the skirt, are often of the lighter fabrics.

Some players do not mind sunburn, and the sleeveless sweater or short-sleeved dress is sometimes seen. Most do, however, so that not only are long sleeves the rule, but scarfs are important, unless the jumper or blouse be colored close to the neck. Hats are generally regulation sports shapes of felt, but for warm weather natural-colored straws are substituted.

WAS JACK DEMPSEY'S PUNCH FOUL OR FAIR?

Motion picture camera photos of the blows by which Jack Dempsey knocked out Jack Sharkey in their heavyweight match at the Yankee stadium are shown below. Included are the swats to Sharkey's stomach, about which dispute as to whether they were foul or fair quickly arose, and the left hook to Sharkey's chin which ended it all. Charles Penser and Henry Sonnenshine, official movie photographers for the match, supplied the pictures to NEA Service for The Register. New York experts can't agree as to whether the pictures decide anything.

(4) As Dempsey pulls back his left, Sharkey's knees give way and he starts falling for the count.

YANKS MAKING JOKE OF A. L. PENNANT RACE

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, July 29.—Rivals of the New York Yankees in the American league are almost in despair over the comedy the former champions are making out of the pennant race.

It isn't so much a matter of grave concern to them that the Yankees look like a cinch for the 1927 pennant but the owners of the other clubs, peering over the stopped next year.

With the exception of Joe Dugan who may not be able to play through the next season at a young base, it is comparatively a young club, Bob Messel, Combs and Ruth are not infants, of course, but neither are they tottering Cobbs and Speakers.

Gehrig, Lazzari and Koenig certainly are youngsters just approaching the top of their game.

There is the important question about pitchers, of course, but pitching isn't such a vital factor with a club that can step out and score six, eight, ten and fifteen runs.

Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns, was the first magnate to announce a rebuilding program. He said he was going to tear his club to pieces and that only four players would be retained.

Connie Mack is almost sure to make some changes. The team failed this year and will fail again for the same reason next season.

The Cleveland Indians will have to make some changes if they are to be figured next year but the Washington Senators, the White Sox and the Detroit Tigers are fairly well set.

The Boston Red Sox are hopeless.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Bill Carrigan in trying to rebuild the Boston Red Sox, was one of the most courageous players I have ever seen perform.

Wagner was a great shortstop in his day. There have been better ones, but I doubt if any of them would take greater chances than Wagner in trying to pull some daring play that either meant winning or staying off defeat.

Out of the game for 10 years in a big league way, before coming back with Carrigan, he found things quite different. Recently I asked him what feature of modern play impressed him most.

There was a bit of the reverse English to Wagner's reply to my query as to his impressions of the present day game.

WAGNER PRAISES HARRIS
"It may be a trifle uncomplimentary and possibly may sound like a case of sour grapes, but to be truthful, I have been impressed most by a certain lack of something."

"I would say the game needs more fighting ball players, who like to win, and rave when they lose. The result of the game is treated too lightly by the players of today. The game is more or less simply a day's work."

"Give me players like Stanley Harris of Washington and Tony Lazzari of New York. They are types of winning ball players. Harris is of the old-time school. He overlooks nothing, has plenty of guts and the courage of his convictions."

"I would say the thing that has impressed me most since I returned to the majors is lack of players of the Stanley Harris type. He has color and ability."

An alumnus of the University of Texas volunteers the belief that tennis players of that great institution are likely to succeed Bill Tilden and Bill Johnston in the tennis world when those two veterans stars pass out of the picture.

Which may be quite true when you consider that Texas, chiefly through the efforts of Louis Thalhimer, Lewis White, Wilmer Allison and James Quick, has kept in the front rank in collegiate competition for many seasons.

Allison, as you probably remember, won the national collegiate title not so many days ago at Philadelphia.

The doubles team of White and Thalhimer is listed No. 6 in the national ranking, and Quick, said to be just as good as the other Texans, was placed No. 14 in the junior singles last year.

All of these players are far under the age of the French stars who seem to have things their own way in the tennis world at this time. But they can't go on forever, neither can Tilden and Johnston. So it is likely that the Texas school will see her favorite sons installed as greats—provided some of the many other young stars of today do not get in ahead of them.

Coach Ira Rodgers at West Virginia is feeling quite elated these days over the interest his football during the summer months. Many

PLAN REGATTA IN CONNECTION WITH FESTIVAL

Arrangements have been completed for a three-day boat regatta and water carnival this weekend in connection with the eighth annual Tournament of Lights to be held on Newport bay Saturday night. The program begins Saturday afternoon with the first clash of the inter-club star boat sailing series and closes Monday with events by the Balboa Island Yacht club, an organization of junior sailors.

The big parade of lights, with more than 150 entries, which is the feature attraction and annually draws thousands of spectators to Newport bay, will begin at 8 o'clock Saturday night. Staff Commodore J. A. Beck, chairman of the Tournament of Lights committee of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce, has announced that the parade will be formed in the turning basin opposite the Balboa pavilion.

From this point it will proceed to the Southland Sailing club, turning and following the shore of Balboa Island to Collins Island, from which point it will move to the Newport Harbor Yacht club and return to the starting point.

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock outboard motor boat racing pilots in the newly organized Newport Harbor Outboard Motor Boat Association will compete over a three mile course in the Southern California championship series. In this lineup will be Ross McPhee, former Santa Ana, at the stick of Rocco which won the recent Avalon to Newport Bay ocean race; Lieut. Jack Deuel in Smith Brothers' Coff Drop III, victor in the four horse power class and 20 or more other drivers from several Southern California cities.

Sunday afternoon will be marked by sailing races. The second clash in the inter-club series, which will bring together approximately 25 skippers from San Diego, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Catalina Island, Newport Beach and Balboa, will be sailed at 2 o'clock, while the Balboa Canoe club will stage bay races for sailing canoes at the same hour. A team race between four boats in the Patricia class from the Alamitos Bay Yacht club and four Newport Stars and the Junior fleet race of the Newport Harbor Yacht club is also scheduled.

A request has Rodgers had for football gear for use this summer, and all of these requests are being granted by the Mountaineer coach. Rodgers believes the boys can learn to play football by playing, just as a fighter learns to fight by fighting. And he's not overlooking any bets to have his men in condition when they report in September.

Alonzo A. Stagg, the grand old man of the midway at Chicago, will see his football team through one of the hardest schedules ever framed this coming season. The Maroons play six games at home, with Penn. Michigan, Indiana, Oklahoma, Wisconsin and Purdue, and meet Ohio State and Illinois away from home. That's a menu worth worrying about.

Colorado is going to try to make its name nationally known in the football world next season. The schedule pits it against Montana State, Utah and Southern California, and victories over the three schools, plus a good record in their state clashes, would give them the right to be heard from the national limelight, but that's a victory few teams will chalk up next season.

CALIFORNIA'S NEW DEER TAG LAW IS EXPLAINED IN FULL; ACT GOES IN EFFECT TODAY

Because of the great amount of misunderstanding concerning the new California deer tag law which goes in effect today, E. A. Chan, deputy fish and game commissioner, with offices in Santa Ana, has issued a statement reiterating important facts that all hunters should remember.

"The deer tag license act requires that in addition to the regular hunting license deer hunters must provide themselves with a deer tag license, costing $1 for two deer tags," Chan said. "You cannot obtain the tags unless you first purchase your hunting license and you must exhibit your hunting license when applying for deer tags."

"Tags may be obtained from all agents who handle fish and hunting licenses and the use of the tag will be fully explained when they are purchased."

"Deer tags are in five parts—two tags and two postcards and a stub which will take the place of the application and will be filled out by the applicant. These tags are to be filled out in full by the agent issuing the license."

"Immediately on killing a deer one of these tags must be attached to the antlers. The postcards must be filled out immediately and mailed to the fish and game commission."

"By having the tag that is attached to the antlers countersigned either by a regular deputy of the fish and game commission or an officer authorized to administer an oath, a deer legally killed may be transported to and possessed in a closed district. Signatures of postmasters will be recognized."

"The new $2 hunting and angling license act will not go in effect until January. At that time the hunting license year will be changed to the calendar year to conform with the angling license year."

"A hunting license purchased between now and the first of the year will remain valid until the first of July next year. In other words, it will cost only $1 for a hunting license, valid from July 1, 1927, to June 30, 1928. After January the fee will be $2."

"Deer hunters who contemplate going into Districts 2, 2 1-2 and 3, which are open August 1 to September 14, must provide themselves with deer tag licenses before entering the field."

"All roads leading from Districts 2 2 1-2 and 3 will be guarded by deputies and unless deer are properly tagged hunters will be penalized in addition to losing their deer."

"The limit is two deer a person except in District 1 3-4, where the limit is one."

Von Elm Off For East Tomorrow

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—George Von Elm, national amateur golf champion, leaves here tomorrow en route to Minneapolis, Minn., where he will defend his title September 22 to 27.

Von Elm plans a brief visit at Salt Lake City, his former home, and may play a series of exhibition games on the eastward journey.

CALLAHAN TO MEET BAKER ON AUG. 29

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—Mushy Callahan, world's junior welterweight champion, will defend his title against Sergeant Sammy Baker, in a 10 round bout at Wrigley field, August 29, Promoter Dick Donald announced today.

Callahan's diamond studded belt, presented by Tex Rickard, will be posted. Both fighters have signed to make 140 pounds at 2 p. m. on the day of the fight.

Callahan will open his camp in the mountains near here, next week. Baker will train at the Ojai camp used by Jack Dempsey before going east.

Compton Angler Lands Big Fish

NEWPORT BEACH, July 29.—Fred Bunkelman, of Compton, was caught a 24 1-4 pound halibut off the Newport Beach pier, holds the record for the largest edible fish caught this week. It was announced by Baldy's Tackle store here today. The $10 prize which is presented each week by merchants of Newport Beach probably will be awarded the Compton angler as a result of the large catch.

Many large halibut are reported each day, it is said. None others have quite come up to the record fish however and so have not been registered.

SUCCESS SEEN FOR HAWAIIAN SILK CULTURE

HONOLULU, July 29.—With the Hawaiian islands, with their large population of Japanese ancestry from the land where silk growing and spinning is a fine art, eventually become a silk empire second only to Japan?

Apparently the art, industry—call it what you will—of sericulture, has never before been seriously considered or experimented within the Paradise of the Pacific, but that experiment is now under way with every evidence of successful outcome. Two generations of aristocratic silkworms, pedigree and imported from Japan, have already lived out their life cycles in Honolulu. Evidently the gentle sunshine and breezes from the Waikiki surf agreed with them, for they thrived lustily and produced what their experienced owners believe to be a very superior grade of cocoon.

The first lot of cocoons have been reeled off into gossamer threads, ready to be sent to silk-testing laboratories on the mainland and in Japan for examination. If the tests are as satisfactory as expected the experimenters plan to continue the development of their business on a large scale and thereby introduce a new industry into Hawaii.

Jap Woman Originator
The originator of this new enterprise is a Japanese woman, Mrs. George Russell. She came to the islands 17 years ago from Japan and is well versed in the exacting care of the growing worms and in the delicate operation of spinning out the silk from the cocoon into its first fairy-like filaments. She has had small hand reels sent to her from Japan for the latter purpose, and if the experiment, undertaken on this first small scale, proves the success hoped for it, larger spindles and more adequate machinery will be sent for. The project in its early stages will be kept a home industry.

So far these scions of Japan's silk nobility have lodged in the airy, quiet upper rooms of Mrs. Russell's pleasant Japanese-style house at Kaimuki, Honolulu, overlooking Diamond head and the famous coconut palms and coral reefs of Waikiki. They began life, after removing themselves from the very carefree-looking scroll of stiff paper on which they had journeyed their many thousand miles as mere insignificant black dots which only the initiated would have recognized as "eggs"—they began life then, in specially constructed trays lined with mulberry leaves and placed in a rack whose legs were carefully insulated against the encroachment of ants or other possible preying insects.

Food Supply All Right
The quantity and quality of island mulberry trees, furnishing the essential food for the growing worms, had been one of the doubtful points in the experiment at first, but ample supply was found, Mrs. Russell says, and of a superior quality. When the culture is undertaken on a large scale mulberry will be specially grown, and within a few years one may see on the island of Oahu acres of the dwarfed mulberry trees, running all to leaves, such as one sees in Japan.

Our Neighbors

RIVERSIDE—Budget estimates to operate the city government during the fiscal year total $286,155.55, according to the outline filed with common council by City Auditor H. W. Pierson. This amount is less estimated collections, however, as well as the outlay for the public library. Pierson stated that to produce this a tax rate of $1.75 which is 41 cents in excess of the limit as fixed by charter would be required. The total for these departments has been reduced to $215,700.04. This amount can be produced by a rate of $1.35 which is the maximum as fixed by charter.

LANKERSHIRE—A large relief map of San Fernando valley, the first of its kind, is being made by H. C. Thomas of the valley branch of the engineering department. It will be used as one of the features of the valley displays at the coming county fair at Pomona. The map will be six feet wide and nine feet long, and will show encircling mountain ranges and the streets of the various valley towns. The map is being constructed in sections, so that in the future any part of it can be reconstructed to keep abreast of further civic developments. This year the Major Development Association of San Fernando valley will sponsor the valley's exhibit at Pomona.

POMONA—Fumigation of orange trees in Pomona valley covering an area exceeding 8000 acres will be begun in the next week by six local concerns which will employ over 200 men to wage a cyanide war on the citricola and other scale. The warm weather which has been in progress for several weeks is aiding the hatching of the scale and likewise killing many of the tree pests. The scale situation this year is reported by most fumigators as being a medium hatch.

SAN BERNARDINO—New residences valued at $20,000 have been projected here during the first three days of the present week. It was announced yesterday by Building Inspector George T. Sargent. Permits for seven new dwellings of frame and stucco construction, have been issued thus far. Their valuation is greater than those granted for the whole of last week.

BROTHERHOODS STAGE PICNIC ON AUGUST 14

Lodges in the Southern California division of the Fraternal Brotherhood will celebrate their annual picnic at the Orange County park August 14, according to plans disclosed by Mrs. Hattie Crane, secretary of the Santa Ana lodge.

More than 1000 people from over the Southland are being expected. This is the third year that the picnic has been held in the Orange County park.

The state officers and prominent speakers are to be present. W. A. Vandegrift, of Los Angeles, supreme president, will be at the picnic. A committee from each of the seven lodges of the Southland met last Monday night in Los Angeles to approve plans for the event.

Members of the picnic committee from the Santa Ana lodge are Harry Brookbank, chairman; Mrs. Lydia Phipps and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Crain.

This evening the Santa Ana lodge was having a picnic of its own at the park. The picnic was being given the men as a result of having won a contest drive for new members against the ladies. Mrs. Helene Galbraith and Mrs. Dave McClaire were in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Mary Ries was initiated into the fraternity at the meeting held last Friday evening in the El Camino hall over which Harry Brookbank, president, presided.

TRIAL OF ALLEGED BURGLAR DELAYED

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—The trial of Charles Valentine Niohus, alleged member of a notorious Hanford safe-cracking gang, on charges of burglary and assault to commit murder has been continued until August 10 in Judge F. B. Brown's court.

Niohus, with Albert Agevado, is charged with stealing a safe containing $1285 from the Crescent Creamery company, of Pasadena, last fall. The assault charge involves the burglary of a safe at San Fernando two weeks later, in which Niohus, with Alvin Clow and Elton Clow, engaged in a gun battle with deputy sheriffs.

Niohus was captured several months later in Chicago. The Clows were apprehended in Tulsa, Okla.

Alvin Clow was sentenced to serve one to 15 years at San Quentin, where he now is confined. His son, Elton Clow, was granted probation of two years and, according to probation officers, has obtained a position with the Edison company at Big Creek.

Continuing Our Special Prices on Hams and Bacon

Another opportunity to buy Cudahy's Puritan Hams and Cudahy's Rex Bacon is offered at all Seidel's Markets. Both are delicious and are especially adapted as the meat item for your summer menus. Cudahy's ham and bacon are more delicious because the young, tender meat is "ripened naturally" by the Special Cudahy Process. It takes longer to cure Puritan, but the result is finer flavor. Take advantage of the reduced prices now in force.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS

BEACH PHONE INSTALLATION FINISHED SOON

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 29.—Installation of the Huntington Beach part of a $50,000 telephone system by the Associated Telephone company, to replace the system which has been in use by the Huntington Beach Telephone company which recently sold out to the Associated company, is rapidly nearing completion, it was learned today.

That the Kellogg type of switchboard, carrying with it the automatic feature of reverting tone so that subscribers can hear the ringing, will be installed and all lines ready for the switch from the old system to the new by August 15, is the statement made today by Sam R. Heffery, vice-president of the company.

The business district has been rewired and telephone employees are busy rewiring telephones in the residence section now. Work is being concentrated on the replacing of the old system in the telephone offices at 602 Main street. It is estimated that a majority of the work covered in the $50,000 improvement campaign will be done in Huntington Beach, although a similar task is presented in the Laguna Beach exchange, where part of the equipment has already been installed by the Laguna Beach company. Six toll lines have been installed between Tustin and Laguna Beach, and with the addition of the automatic system as is being installed at Huntington Beach, better service on both exchanges is to be expected according to Heffery.

Similar improvements were made at Sunset Beach about a month ago, when the exchange was switched from Huntington Beach to Long Beach.

CLUB WILL HEAR OF AIR JOURNEY

NEWPORT BEACH, July 29.—The first official meeting of the Newport Harbor chapter of the National Aeronautic association will be held next Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Boy Scout hut on Tenth street, just north of Central avenue, and near the American Legion clubhouse.

Vern Speich, president, will speak. Speich has just completed a cross country air trip. Plans for the acquisition of a suitable tract of land for an airport near Newport harbor will be discussed at the meeting.

An air tournament in the near future with parachute drops and other features is understood to be under consideration by the club. The club has 56 members, according to Antar Deraga, secretary.

Brea Boy Scouts In Canyon Camp

BREA, July 29.—The fact that they number 13 has in no wise daunted the spirit of the Brea Boy Scouts now in their brand new camp home on the Santa Ana river in Santa Ana canyon. The boys in camp are Tom Ford, George and Lloyd Crabb, Emeris and Udell Woods, William Acord, Elmer Smith, Firman Rogers, Harry Sweet, Curtis Bush, Kenneth Reynolds, George Henigan and Lewis Rist and they were taken up to camp Wednesday afternoon by J. R. Collins, Harry Winchel and Scoutmaster J. G. Crooke, Ed Peterkin bringing up the rear with a truck load of fire wood.

The cabin recently erected on the camp site is not yet complete but enough of the bunks have been installed to accommodate the boys there at present. Volunteer carpenters will up the first of the week following the return of the boys and complete the installation of bunks and some other necessary touches before the camp can be said to be complete.

Production At Beach Shows Gain

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 29.—The production of the townfield at Huntington Beach picked up a few hundred barrels last week, and is now averaging about 35,000 barrels a day. The increase is principally due to improved production methods as no new wells have been completed in the field recently.

MAYNARD DUNBAR RITES SATURDAY

LA HABRA, July 29.—Funeral services for Maynard Dunbar, 22, formerly of La Habra, who committed suicide Wednesday afternoon at his home in Montebello, will be held Saturday at 1:30 o'clock from the Moritz parlors in Montebello.

Young Dunbar and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Dunbar, had lived in La Habra for about 12 years, moving to Montebello about a year ago. The young man was a graduate of the Fullerton high school and was a prominent athlete while in school.

His health was the reason for the youth's act, according to the father. The latter had just returned from Compton, where he had made arrangements for placing his son in a sanitarium, when he heard a shot. He hastened to his son's room and found the body on the floor, a bullet wound in the head.

SEAL BEACH IN OPPOSITION TO RIVER PROJECT

SEAL BEACH, July 29.—A couple of years ago the Seal Beach city council passed an ordinance prohibiting the San Gabriel river flood control project from going straight into the ocean, which would have meant a part of it being in the city of Seal Beach. Reason for this ordinance was that straightening of the flood control channel would mean a levee in the city, and also the dumping of more debris on the ocean floor.

The matter has been brought up again by Los Angeles county in a request to the city council to repeal the present ordinance and permit straightening of the channel.

Sentiment in Seal Beach is very strong against repeal of the ordinance. It is reported. The chamber of commerce and other organizations are expected to present resolutions at the next meeting of the council protesting against repeal, as the eastern part of the city would be endangered by floods such as occurred last spring.

ANAHEIM FINDS WATER LEVELS BEING LOWERED

ANAHEIM, July 29.—Slowly but surely the underground water supply from which Anaheim draws her domestic water supply is being lowered and, though no immediate shortage is expected, the levels are falling rapidly enough to cause some concern for the future unless some steps are taken to replenish the supply from other sources. Vard W. Hannum, superintendent of Anaheim's municipal water plant, declared today.

Today the city's pumps are reaching down 100 feet for water, which is being consumed at the rate of more than 1,500,000 gallons daily, the levels lowering 13 feet since last May, Hannum reports.

Last month the city consumed approximately 45,000,000 gallons of water, all of which was drawn from the underground system. According to Hannum the July allowance will far exceed the June total.

These figures show an appreciable increase in volume over those of last year. June, 1926, drew 43,000,000 gallons of water, or an average of more than 1,300,000 daily.

However, the fears of those predicting a water shortage may be allayed somewhat by the water level figures for other years, which show this year in a favorable light.

July 25 of last year, the water levels were down to 109 feet as compared with the present depth of 100 feet. Heavy rains and mountain snows during the past winter months are held responsible for this improvement. The water levels have been falling, however, since May 1. June 1, the water level was at 94 1-2 feet; July 1, 96 1-2 feet, and July 25, 100 feet.

SANTA ANA LODGE ACTIVITIES

DEMOLAY BOYS HEAR PLAN FOR ALUMNI ORDER

The thousands of members of the Order of De Molay who have attained their majority are to be united in a big association to be known as the De Molay alumni through a movement launched by Frank S. Land, grand scribe under the authority of the grand council.

A temporary organization has been perfected which will function until the annual meeting of the grand council next March. Louis Lower, of Kansas City, who was the first De Molay, is the temporary president.

Membership in the alumni will be confined to former De Molays who hold majority certificates issued by the grand council. Purely social in nature, the alumni association will have as its purpose the retention of contacts between former members, the fostering of De Molay work and the active support of individual chapters.

National conferences will be held annually just previous to the Grand Council meeting and at the same place.

According to word received by the Santa Ana chapter from Land, an alumni chapter may be organized on the petition of five majority members if the advisory council of the chapter sanctions the action.

Temporary officers have been appointed over the nation. Charles Fuller of San Francisco, regional vice president, is California's representative. Land heads the national advisory board for the association.

Begin Leasing Of New Oil Grounds

BAKERSFIELD, July 29.—Oil men arrived here by scores yesterday to rush leasing operations following the oil strike at No. 1 well of the Pacific Eastern Production company, just outside the city limits. Punch concocted by James Utt was served during the afternoon. A baseball game between picked teams was the only sport feature of the afternoon.

SPANISH WAR VETS TO MEET NEXT SUNDAY

Snakes of no ordinary species, many from Santa Ana, will make an exodus to Ganesha park, Pomona, for the annual Southern California conclave next Sunday.

The "snakes" are of a human variety.

Many a distinguished veteran of the Spanish-American war, who learned all about snakes in Manila and in the Cuban camps, fighting Moros and Spaniards a quarter of a century ago wiggle about under the name of the Military Order of Snails.

Santa Ana and Paranaque lair of Pomona will be the hosts on the occasion and a hilarious program is being arranged, according to Charles Waffle, a member of the Santa Ana committee.

The members will wear the Snails uniform which is a combination of head strings and a grass hulu skirt, resembling the Fiji. On the program are unregulated ball games and other sports indulged in about the grounds and plunge at the Pomona park. Nearly 1000 of the veterans are expected.

Walt Mason, famous for his widely syndicated jingles, and one of the most distinguished of the Snails, has promised to be present at the picnic. It was learned.

JOB DAUGHTERS OF SOUTHLAND TO HOLD PICNIC

Santa Ana Bethel of Job's Daughters may win the prize offered to the order in Southern California that has the largest percentage of the membership present at the picnic to be held at Balboa beach next Saturday. It was stated by Miss Helen Kellogg, Bethel Guardian.

Several hundred members of the Job's Daughters chapters of the Southland will be present for the first annual picnic at the beach, according to indications.

The Santa Ana Bethel will have charge of welcoming the representatives of other cities. The girls are to leave from the Santa Ana Masonic temple at 9 o'clock for the beach. Miss Olive Granger is chairman of the transportation committee for the Santa Ana girls.

As a part of the day's program, the girls are to entertain the children of the Masonic home on Channel Isle at picnic dinner.

Final plans for the affair were made at the meeting of the Santa Ana Job's Daughters held last Monday afternoon and evening. During the afternoon, the initiation of a large class of candidates was held. Those speaking for the good of the order were Mrs. Sadie Roehm, promoter of sociability; Misses Lois Winslow, Prudence Drews, Mary Clanton, Emma Tanenbaum and Margaret Clanton.

At 8:30 o'clock, a banquet was served. The program consisting of musical numbers and games, was in charge of Miss Elizabeth Roehm.

Miss Alice Prather gave a piano selection. Two readings, "The Antiseptic Baby" and "The Prophetic Pup" and "The Making of the Flag" were given by Miss Janice Black. Miss Virginia Pope sang a solo. The banquet program was concluded by serving punch and wafers.

K. OF P. MAINTAIN 18 HOMES FOR AGED

"The Order Knights of Pythias maintains 18 Homes for aged Pythians and for widows and orphans. More than 5000 men, women and children are residents of these homes. Approximately 4000 acres of tillable land, buildings and equipment representing an outlay of $6,000,000 stands as a memorial to Pythian care of the unfortunate. The cost of maintaining these homes and of educating the orphans is about $5,000,000 annually."

This is a summary of the activity of the Pythian Order read before the local lodge at a recent meeting by William Lawrence, keeper of records and seal. The report was issued by the Supreme Lodge as an educational bulletin to give members of the order a definite knowledge of the extent of this department of Pythian activity. These homes are located in eighteen states and during July and August hundreds of thousands of Pythians and their families will visit these homes. During August two large homes located in Indiana and Minnesota will be dedicated and a half million dollar unit will be completed at the home in California, which is located near Santa Rosa.

"The care of our aged and orphaned is the outstanding achievement of the Pythian Order," according to Chancellor Commander J. A. Gajski. "Two departments of the Order's activity direct the work in this endeavor. Our homes are shrines of Pythian devotion where the aged finds protection and the child is given the care of home when a tragedy crosses its pathway."

"The other auxiliary devoted to the care of the Pythian family is its insurance department which has recently announced free medical examination for all members and their families. The department maintains a medical staff and a large laboratory for this service."

FASHION PLATE
PARIS, July 29.—Berry Wall is regarded as America's glass of fashion. Any gentleman in America who has the same opinion about him may wish to note that at the Grand Semaine racing he wore a green Ascot tie with big polka dots and a handkerchief to match in the breast pocket of his gray frock coat.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

WHEREAS, MARK LIGHTBURN, a married man dealing with his separate property, and JAMES R. SMITH, a single man, by Deed of Trust dated September 18th, 1925, and recorded September 23rd, 1925, in Book 603, page 237 of Deeds, Orange County Records, State of California, did grant and convey the premises therein and hereinafter described, to the FARMERS & MERCHANTS TRUST COMPANY OF LONG BEACH, a California Corporation, of Long Beach, California, the true name of which corporation is FARMERS AND MERCHANTS TRUST COMPANY OF LONG BEACH, as Trustees, to secure among other things, the payment of a certain promissory note made by the said Mark Lightburn and James R. Smith, to the order of EMMA PARKER YOUNG, wife of A. T. Young, dated September 18th, 1925, in the principal sum of Four Thousand ($4,000.00) Dollars, due three years after date, with interest from date until paid, at the rate of eight (8) per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, said note providing that should the interest not be so paid, it shall become a part of the principal and thereafter bear like interest as the principal; said note further providing that should default be made in the payment of any installment of interest when due, then the whole sum of principal and interest shall become immediately due and payable at the option of the holder of said note; and

WHEREAS, said note and trust deed have been duly assigned to N. G. PERRYMAN and DELIA PERRYMAN, husband and wife as joint tenants, with right of survivorship, and

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of said promissory note, and a breach has been made in the obligation for which said deed of trust is a security in this, that the installment of interest due March 15th, 1927, was not paid when due, and has not been paid, and is now due, owing and unpaid; that the first installment of county taxes for the fiscal year 1926-27 was not paid when due, and has not been paid, and is now due and unpaid; and that the second installment of county taxes for the fiscal year 1926-27, has not been paid, and is now wholly owing and unpaid; and

WHEREAS, the said N. G. Perryman and Delia Perryman, being the then owners and holders of said note under said Deed of Trust, and in accordance with the terms of Section 2924 of the Civil Code of the State of California, did record in the office of the County Recorder of the County of Orange, (being the County wherein the real property covered by said Deed of Trust and hereinafter described is situated), a notice of said breach, and of their election to cause said property to be sold to satisfy said obligation, which said notice was recorded on the 6th of April, 1927, in Book 34, page 219 of Official Records in the office of the County Recorder of said Orange County;

NOW, THEREFORE, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the undersigned, by virtue of the authority in it vested as Trustee, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, in United States gold coin, on the 1st day of August, 1927, at the hour of 9:30 o'clock, A. M., of said day, at the Third Street entrance of the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Long Beach, at the corner of Third Street and Pine Avenue, in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California, the interest held by it under and by virtue of the aforesaid Deed of Trust, in and to the real property therein described, situated in the City of Santa Ana, County of Orange, State of California, to-wit: Lot One (1), in Block of Tract No. 465, of Kilson Square, as shown on a map recorded in Book 16 page 48 of Miscellaneous Maps, Records Orange County, California, or so much thereof as shall be necessary to pay all principal, interest, advances, charges, costs, expenses

NOTICE OF FILING ASSESSMENT FOR THE WORK OF IMPROVEMENT OF FREEMAN AVENUE, PROVIDED FOR BY RESOLUTION OF INTENTION NO. 1739, PASSED MARCH 21ST, 1927, AND OF THE TIME OF HEARING AS TO SAID WORK AND SAID ASSESSMENT.

The undersigned, the City Clerk of the City of Santa Ana, State of California, hereby gives notice that on the 27th day of July, 1927, the Superintendent of Streets of said City having made an assessment to cover the sum due for the work performed and specified in the contract made under proceedings for the improvement of a portion of Freeman Avenue, initiated by Resolution of Intention No. 1739, passed March 21st, 1927, filed the same with me, I hereby fix August 15th, 1927, at the hour of 7:30 o'clock P. M. in the said assessment will be held in City Hall of said City as the place where and when all persons interested in the work done thereunder or in the said assessment will be heard by the Board of Trustees. This notice will also be published by the undersigned twice in the Santa Ana Daily Evening Register, a newspaper published in said City. The owners, contractor or his assigns, all other persons interested in the said work or in the said assessment feeling aggrieved by any act or determination of the Superintendent of Streets or the City Engineer in relation thereto, or who claim that the work has not been performed according to contract in good and substantial manner, or who claim that any portion of the work for any reason was omitted or illegally included in the contract for the same, having or making any objections to the correctness of the assessment, or diagram or plan of the work, or protesting against the same, shall appear at the hearing upon the assessment appeal to the Board of Trustees by briefly stating in writing the grounds of appeal.

For a description of said work reference is hereby made to the above mentioned Resolution No. 1739.

(Seal) E. L. VEGELY,

$85,322 PAID BY M'PHERSON CITRUS PLANT

ORANGE, July 29.—Cash returns on approximately 20 per cent of the Valencia pack of the McPherson Heights Citrus association plant totaled $85,322. It was received today by C. W. Post, manager. The payment of that amount is being made to the growers on the first pool, which was packed between May 1 to June 9.

FINISH EXCHANGE OF SCHOOL LOTS

ORANGE, July 29.—Exchange of high school property, which has been under discussion for several weeks, was completed this week, when Dr. J. A. Hatch, owner of the corner lot on Orange and Sycamore streets, came to a settlement with the high school board. Dr. Hatch is the last property owner to exchange his land with the high school.

Notices have been posted by Principal F. A. Henderson, notifying the public of the exchange of property.

Work has started on the moving of the houses on Orange street to their new positions in the next block north. The first house was moved yesterday morning, while work has been started on all of the houses, preparatory to moving. It is planned to complete all the construction work on the property, which is to be used as a girls' athletic grounds, by September 1.

MEN GROWING FATTER

ATLANTIC CITY, July 29.—Men are growing steadily fatter, with little or no benefit therefrom for the woolen manufacturers, if John Fisher, Philadelphia manufacturer, has it straight. He told the National Knitted Outerwear association that notwithstanding increased weight men were wearing lighter clothes and thereby playing havoc with the wool business.

Miss Schroeder, Herbert Mierhoff Marry In Anaheim

OLIVE, July 29.—Miss Nora Schroeder and Herbert Mierhoff, of Olive, were married in the Anaheim Lutheran church Tuesday with the Rev. H. G. Schmetzer reading the ceremony. Following the marriage, the couple left for a two weeks' trip to Yosemite.

MERGER OF 3 WATER FIRMS IS PROJECTED

ORANGE, July 29.—Three companies organized to supply water to ranchers in the Orange Heights, Villa Park and El Modena districts are proposing to combine in one large organization, serving 1450 acres, it was learned this morning.

The Serrero Villa Water company will hold a special meeting of its stockholders in El Modena, August 4, to consider the proposition. The Gray Tract Well company has called a meeting for its stockholders for August 15 in the office of the company on the F. H. Collins ranch near Villa Park. The Santiago Well company is scheduled to meet on August 16 to either ratify or refuse to join the other two companies.

It is pointed out that the three companies as now organized have overhead expenses which when combined will be materially reduced through elimination of duplication. This will result in a lower cost for water to stockholders.

Should the three companies ratify the move, a joint meeting some time soon will probably be called for organization and election of officers.

STANDARD TO CORE ORANGE WILDCAT WELL

ORANGE, July 29.—Core samples will be taken at the Standard Oil company's well on North Glassell street within the next few days. Drilling has advanced far enough that oil is expected to show at any time. The hole is now down approximately 2200 feet which is deep enough, according to oil officials, to begin making definite tests.

Easy drilling has now been encountered. For several days the well was only advancing from 6 to 10 feet per day when the bit was penetrating a hard clay like substance. After the new sand was encountered more than 400 feet was drilled in the seven days.

The Standard Oil company is operating three shifts.

The real tests of the well will begin to be made next week, when a core-bit will be lowered and the sand taken to a laboratory for testing. This will be a regular proceeding in the drilling of the well.

Lions In Visit To Health Camp

ORANGE, July 29.—Fifteen members of the local Lions club held their regular weekly luncheon meeting Wednesday at the Orange county health camp near Orange county park and assisted in the celebration of the fourth birthday anniversary of the camp.

The Lions took with them a huge birthday cake contributed by Ehlen and Grote, ice cream contributed by Orange Ice and Cold Storage company, $25, contributed by the club for camp improvements and $5.00 for the swimming pool fund.

The 48 children in camp gave the Lions a rousing welcome, entertaining with health songs, flag salute and other features of health camp programs.

Contracts Signed For Six Cruisers

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur has announced that contracts have been signed for construction of the six new 10,000 ton cruisers appropriated for by the last congress. Announcement of the contracts, which were signed June 13, came almost simultaneously with predictions of failure of the Geneva arms conference.

Crescent Creamery Company

"Milk bottles show Thin milk below. Their cream is all on top."

"We cows retort Each Alpine quart Has cream in every drop!"

NOBODY likes the milk at the bottom of a bottle because there's little or no cream left in it.

But Alpine is different. There's just as much cream in the last spoonful as in the first. That's because it's homogenized.

This process breaks up the large coarse globules of milk fat, which form the cream, into countless tiny ones. As a result they remain evenly distributed throughout instead of rising to the top as cream does in ordinary milk. That's why there's cream in every drop of Alpine.

A double supply of cream, too. For Alpine is pure, rich milk with the cream retained but more than half the water removed.

Use Alpine in your coffee and in every recipe that calls for milk. You'll get a richer flavor, a smoother, creamier consistency.

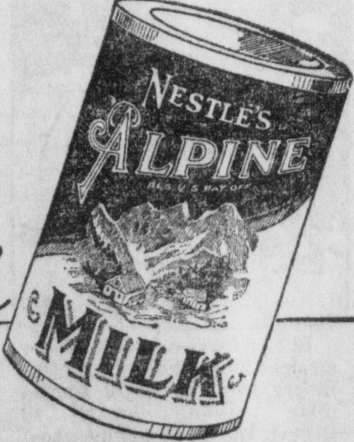

Costs less than ordinary milk—keeps pure and sweet indefinitely in its sterilized air-tight container. Get Alpine today.

For your next layer cake try this smooth, rich Chocolate Icing

1 cup Alpine Milk, 1 cup sugar, 4 squares chocolate, 1 tsp. vanilla. Cook Alpine Milk and chocolate together until smooth, stirring constantly. Add sugar and cook till mixture thickens. Take from fire and, when cool, add vanilla. Spread between layers and on top of cake.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

THAT WHEREAS by deed of trust dated April 6, 1926, and recorded April 22, 1926, in Book 646, Page 256 of Deeds, Orange County Records, California, to which record reference is hereby made, E. M. Theiford and Mary E. Theiford, husband and wife, did grant and convey the property therein and hereinafter described to The California National Bank of Long Beach, a corporation of Long Beach, Los Angeles County, California, as Trustee, to secure, among other things, the payment of one certain promissory note in favor of W. W. Eiden, and other sums of money advanced and interest thereon;

AND WHEREAS said promissory note has been duly assigned to Richard Cole, by assignment made on the back of said note; and WHEREAS there has been a default in the payment of installments of interest due on said note secured by said deed of trust in the following particulars: The installments of interest which became due and payable October 6, 1926, and January 6, 1927, are past due and unpaid, and by reason of said default, said Richard Cole, the owner and holder of said note and deed of trust, in accordance with the provisions thereof, on the 23rd day of March, 1927, exercised his option and declared the full amount of the indebtedness secured by said deed of trust to be immediately due and payable, there being the total principal sum of One Thousand Two Hundred Fifty and 00/100 Dollars ($1250.00), and interest thereon at the rate of eight per cent (8%) per annum from July 6, 1926, then due and unpaid; and

WHEREAS in accordance with the provisions of Section 2927 of the Civil Code of the State of California, said Richard Cole, the owner and holder of said note and deed of trust, on March 20, 1927, caused to be recorded in the office of the County Recorder of Orange County, California, a notice of default in the payment of installments of interest and of his election to cause the property described by said deed of trust to be sold in accordance with the provisions thereof to satisfy said obligations and which notice of default and Election to Sell was duly recorded in Book 33 Page 105 of Official Records, Orange County, California; and

WHEREAS said deed of trust provides that if there be a default in the payment of any sums secured thereby, upon application of the holder of said note and deed of trust the Trustee shall give notice and sell so much of the property as shall be necessary to satisfy the indebtedness secured thereon; and WHEREAS said Richard Cole by reason of the default of payments as hereinbefore stated has requested that he be permitted to sell the property described by said deed of trust at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, lawful money of the United States of America, on the 2nd day of August, 1927, at the hour of eleven o'clock A. M., of said day at the North Side Entrance of The California National Bank of Long Beach, located at Los Angeles, State of California, all of the interest conveyed to it by said deed of trust in and to all of that certain property situate in the County of Orange, State of California, described as follows:

Lot Forty-four (44), Forty-five (45), Forty-six (46), forty-seven (47) and Forty-eight (48) in Block "B", Tract 331 Edinger Square, as per map thereof recorded in Book 18 Pages 2 and 3 of Miscellaneous Maps in the office of the Recorder of said County or so much thereof as shall be necessary to pay the total amount of the principal in the sum of One Thousand Two Hundred Fifty and 00/100 Dollars ($1250.00), together with interest thereon at the rate of eight per cent (8%) per annum from July 6, 1926, to date of sale, Trustee's Fees of One Hundred Fifty Dollars ($150.00), advances made under the terms of said deed of trust, if any, and all costs of notice, advertising and any other necessary expenses in connection with said sale.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF said The California National Bank of Long Beach has duly authorized this notice by the signature of its Vice-President, attested by the Secretary who has affixed the corporate seal at Long Beach, California, the 5th day of July, 1927.

SKETCHES BY BESSEY
SYNOPSIS BY BRAUCHER

The most astounding of the early expeditions to find a channel from Asia to America was the effort of Vitus Bering. It was an unparalleled battle with the elements, lasting over sixteen years, and including four overland journeys of 4000 miles each from Petrograd to Okhotsk, for all material had to be carried to this remote point in Asia.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge. Copyright, 1923-26

Five hundred men, scientists, sailors, carpenters and blacksmiths, with 800 horses comprised the first expedition.

Supplies ran short, however, and men had to eat their boots and the harness of the horses on the way.

Bering found open water where the land connection between the two continents should have been, but he did not sight the American shore before being driven back to winter quarters. After several such attempts, and as many failures, Bering finally did reach America, but never returned to tell the tale to the Czar of Russia, who had backed him. (To Be Continued)

THE TINYMITES
STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Goofy-Goos were queer to see as black as anyone could be. Said Clowney, "Say, who are you two, and why do you live here?" "We're Horrie candy," one replied. "In candy stores we're often spied. Of course we're very harmless, so we bring no cause for fear."

Then Coppy laughed aloud and said, "You all know how to raise much Ned. I think you fought a dandy fight with us a while ago." A Horrie baby, "mid a grin, replied, "We did not hope to win. You Tinymites all looked so big, we knew we had no show." Then Scouty cried, "Oh, why discuss that fight? 'Twas just a friendly tuss. I think we'd all be wiser if we'd quiet down and rest." And thus it was the "Tines" bunch all carried out wee Scouty's hunch. They flopped down in the grass and soon with restful sleep were blest.

The Goofy-Goos stood 'round a while and then one broke into a smile, "Let's let Tines have their sleep. They'll soon wake up much cheered." The rest agreed that that was wise, and as the leader winked his eyes, the little band jumped up and ran and shortly disappeared.

Wee Clowney sure knew how to snore, and in about an hour or more, the raspy noise woke Scouty up. Then he woke all the rest. "Jump up," he shouted, "Let's all search for Goofy-Goos. We're in the lurch. They've left us and they must have gone to east, north, south or west."

Just at this moment, though, there came a noise. A rabbit was to blame. It hopped around right near the bunch, as if in quite a race. And then quite suddenly it stopped and on its back the Tines hopped, and 'ere the bunch all knew it, they were sailing out through space.

The WOMAN'S DAY
by ALLENE SUMNER

Just a handful of thoughts percolated on the morning car ride. I carried with me Storm Jameson's new novel, "The Lovely Ship." It is no reflection on the book that I only read a page or so. Even the greatest book ever written could not have really competed with the rain-wet world outside the car window. Scarlet-winged blackbirds flew up singing from swampy beds of arum lily and wild iris. Wild honeysuckle perfumed the air and, mingled with the scent of ripe wild strawberries and sweet clover, made a bouquet fit for a queen's nostrils.

I GOT ONE
Even so, I caught this paragraph in the novel, and thought of it a little while sniffing the wet world outside. Mary Hansyke Roxby had a job in her uncle's shipyard. It was about 1860. Women did not work "outside the home" in those days—especially not women with baby sons, as had Mary.

"She worked during this time as she never worked again, in all her long life. She knew that Mark Henry Garton would turn her ruthlessly out of the firm if she proved useless. She was there to fight with naked hands and wits in a world that conceded nothing to a woman except her right to be protected from it."

IMPOSED ON?

We hear a great deal today about the hardships of women in business; how, in order to be successful, they must make good a hundredfold more than men in the same positions. We hear dramatic tales of impositions put upon women by male superiors; of males who take credit for a woman employee's achievements, et al. But it seems to me that there are many more working women who complain as did Mary Hansyke Roxby 75 years ago that "the business world concedes nothing to a woman except her right to be protected from it."

I know infinitely more working women who complain of not being given enough work, enough responsibility, enough recognition as competent workers, than the other kind.

MRS. EDISON'S PIECE
Mrs. Thomas Alva Edison, another of these wives of great men who are rarely heard from, contrasts her life in the days when they had no electric lights, no bath tub, et al, with the present day of multitudinous conveniences. She remarks that she is not sure that "modern conveniences" are a 100 per cent benefit to women. She comments, "what a lot of time saved from housework is spent in bridge!"

I agree with Mrs. Edison as to the labor-saving of many so-called labor-saving devices. But I can't see a lot of sense in the last remark. I really can't see just how or why spending time and energy cleaning lamp chimneys, trimming wicks, and filling lamps with oil, or sweeping with a broom or scrubbing floors on one's hands and knees, is doing any more good to the worker herself, to her family or her community than playing bridge or indulging in any other frivolities.

PA'S AND MA'S TURN

"The age of the child has run its course," some sage remarks, adding, "If sound and happy children are to be provided through the sacrifice of parents, the family will, patently, become an unbalanced institution." Which sounds to me as sensible as anything heard in some time.

MEASUREMENTS

It would not be a bad idea for you to take your own measurements, and then keep them somewhere on a card, so you can refer to them. If you have any tendency to get fat or thin, you can check up on it; if you figure gets thick in places, you can tell this too.

For instance, the girl weighs 125 at the age of 19. It isn't a bad weight, if she is average height—she'd be slim enough and probably very pretty. Her mother weighs 130 or 135 at the most—and looks dumpy and fat. They are about the same height. How is the difference distributed and what makes one figure young and the other settled and old?

Well, probably as the mother got older, a lot of fat settled around her hips and over her stomach. From 31, watch the measurement of the waist and the hips. Fat will come here. Also it will collect on the upper arm. Now there is no part of a woman's body more attractive than the line where a slender well-formed arm goes into the shoulder, and there is nothing uglier than a lump of fat and a lot of fleshy creases here. Some women are so fat that their arms stick out away from their bodies, literally pushed away by the flesh that has settled on the arms and the sides.

Measure your neck, your upper arm, lower arm, bust, chest, under the bust, waist, hips upper leg, calf, ankle. There's little use comparing these measurements to the ideal one for the female figure because ideals change and the Venus de Milo herself would not be considered anything extra if you put her in clothes today. People would say she was "thick set."

Women who have had children are apt to be thicker around the waist afterwards than before. They needn't be. Most of them won't bother to keep their waists slim, or take abdominal exercises to keep the stomach flat afterwards.

D. M. P.—You should go back to the doctor. It is evident that you are in need of more treatments or you would not have the smothered sensation. It is not necessary that you should starve yourself to keep down your weight. Limit yourself only with the foods that make you stout; these are starches, sugar and fats, but you may be well nourished and improve your health if you keep to fresh vegetables, whole wheat bread, and lean meat in moderation.

Don't let your figure get fat
The iron and iodine injections probably increased your appetite for a time, so you would gain as you have without realizing that you were eating too much.

BREAKFAST—Fresh prunes, cereal, cream, crisp broiled bacon, creamed eggs, toast, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Salmon and green pea salad, rye bread, sour cream pie, milk, tea.

DINNER—Broiled Spanish mackerel, baked new potatoes, beet greens garnished with hard cooked eggs, banana and orange salad, brown Betty, milk, coffee.

Oven-broiled bacon is sure to prove popular. The bacon should be placed on a rack over a pan. The regulation broiler of the average gas range fits the oven, but if one does not have this, an ordinary flat broiler can be supported on a pan so that the bacon cooks in the oven, the pan receives the bacon "drippings" and the bacon is held quite above them.

When the cream sours, sour cream pie will be a treat.

Sour Cream Pie

One cup sour cream, 1-2 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup seeded raisins, 1-2 cup finely diced apples, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

Beat yolks of eggs until light. Add cream. Mix and sift sugar, flour, salt and cinnamon. Add raisins and apples and mix thoroughly. Add to eggs and cream. Mix well and turn into a pie dish lined with pastry. Bake ten minutes in a hot oven. Reduce heat and bake until firm in a moderately slow oven. It will take about 30 minutes. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry. Beat in 4 tablespoons sugar and 1-4 teaspoon vanilla. Cover pie with meringue and bake in a slow oven for eight minutes. Serve cold.

Don't Be Too Critical Of Newlyweds

By Olive Roberts Barton

And now the disappearance of the good old American family, the kind that had children, lived in a house, kept a dog, had a lawn to cut in summer and a sidewalk to shovel off in winter, a furnace to bank, and sundry other things—now they say that all this is on the wane on account of the men.

Young men, we are told won't run lawn mowers, fix furnaces, shovel walks, revamp screens, or do any of the odd jobs that have always been looked after by pater familias.

The declaration comes down to even such a plain statement as this: "In the national passion for shirking domestic duty, the male has been just as slothful as the female."

There is little doubt of the tendency on the part of young married couples not to have houses or children. I am sorry. But I am going to say this also. The world has had children for many centuries. Young couples have always had houses. Young mothers have cooked and sewed, and young fathers have cut lawns and shoveled walks.

Why should one generation make such a difference? Surely young people cannot change so completely and break away from all biological tradition if circumstances beyond their control were not directly responsible for their new standards.

We cannot blink the fact that times have changed, not people. I know the struggle that many young couples are up against. They could not possibly maintain a house or a family. I am only excusing the ones who have neither because it is an economic impossibility. For those who prefer luxury without responsibility I have no word. But I know too many fine young men, and young women, to let the accusation go without a protest.

SPLENDOR

There is no splendor
Brighter than to be Thoughtful and tender
When a tear you see.

There is no glory
Greater than to share
The sad, swift story
Of another's care.

There is no labor
Holier than to stay

Fast by your neighbor
Through his troubled day.

For what is clever,
Daring, skillful, wise
Is vain endeavor
If all friendship dies.

Who gives to duty
All the strength and thought
Will lose the beauty

M'PHERSON'S VALENCIAS

Citrus growers all over the county, and great numbers of residents of the county who are not citrus growers, are interested in the report of the cash returns from the first pool of valencias handled by the McPherson Heights Citrus association.

This is the time of year when reports from citrus sales are watched with great concern. It was because of this interest and because of the large figure that oranges and lemons cut in the commercial life of this county that The Register, a year ago, entered into arrangements for securing daily telegraphic reports from sales centers in the East. These reports come to us over the United Press wire at about 1 o'clock each day, and are hurried into type so that they can reach our readers in the evening paper.

The above paragraph came rather as an aside remark. We were directing our attention to a report from McPherson showing the association's receipts for the short pool, representing shipment of 80 cars of valencias between May 1 and June 9, to have been $65,322. The McPherson association is one of the oldest and one of the best citrus associations in the county. We recall that frequently this section has made the earliest shipment of the year. McPherson is in the center of a wonderfully fine citrus section. Soil and climate are there combined by nature to suit the taste of the fastidious valencia. The growers and the association are experienced in the production of a fine grade of fruit, and naturally McPherson ranks high in the Sunkist family.

CARR AS COMMISSIONER

The appointment by Governor Young of William J. Carr, of Los Angeles and Pasadena, as a member of the state railroad commission, will bring satisfaction in Orange county, where Carr is well known.

Through his work as state senator from Pasadena, Carr made for himself a place as one of the state's foremost legislators. He fought things out on their merits always. For the last few years, Carr has had a leading part in the fight for the Boulder dam. He was selected as Pasadena's representative in that matter and in Washington his good judgment and wide experience put him into a position as right hand man for Senator Johnson and Congressman Swing in all of the complicated situations that arose there in relation to Colorado river legislation. Carr's legal ability and training, his unquestioned honesty, his clear-sighted gift of analysis and his capacity for hard work especially fit him for public service upon the state railroad commission.

THE RESTORED OIL RESERVES

The navy's oil reserves, it is announced, are restored to the navy department, six years after their unfortunate transfer to the interior department.

The navy department announces that, in administering the oil reserves, "its policy, in line with legislation applying to the reserves as interpreted by the courts, will be a policy of conservation."

This is as it should be. It never should have been otherwise.

And speaking of conservation, it would be well if that policy were somehow spread out to include all the nation's oil fields, those privately owned as well as those held by the government. Conservation here should mean not only holding certain reserves, but also the curbing of waste, the complete exhaustion of a well before abandoning it, and the adoption of more efficient methods of drilling, pumping and refining.

DOLLARS AND TONS

Not long ago the North American Review gave some eye-opening figures on what it costs to move freight by different methods.

By horse and wagon, a dollar will pay for carrying a ton a little more than four miles;
By truck, the dollar will haul that ton 20 miles;
At the average freight rate on American railroads, 133 miles;

On the Erie canal, 333 miles;
On European canals, 500 miles;
By the late route through the Soo canal, according to 1913 freight rates, 1,500 miles;

At the rate for coal on the Great Lakes and on the Mississippi river, 3,000 miles.

Here are facts to keep in mind in the development of the country's future transportation systems. They have an obvious application to present projects for inland waterways.

CHICAGO JAYWALKERS

Chicago, which is always on the move, is going to move with more precision, in order to make better speed.

The present effort is directed especially at pedestrians. They are being given a fortnight of intensive training, after which they will be required to obey the "stop" and "go" signals the same as the motorists. Jaywalkers will be liable to fines as high as $100.

Two other notable rules are expected to help. Roller skates, kiddie cars, sleds and other "toy" vehicles are ruled off the street. Also women shoppers are forbidden to stop and gossip on the sidewalks of business streets. Both of these reforms will expedite the foot traffic. Both will be hard on those affected—whether harder on the children or the women is a matter for debate.

Chicago crowds have always seemed, to visitors, to move along the street faster than those of any other city. Rubber-necking outlanders are often bumped off the sidewalk by busy residents so intent on their own affairs that they hardly notice the collision. Chicago pedestrians seem to move straight ahead, regardless of obstacles, as their collective community does. With the new regulations in effect, the dawdling tourist will have to be more alert than ever, and step lively on the sidewalk as well as the crossing.

The G. O. P. Convention

Stockton Record

William H. Crocker, official Republican convention go-getter for San Francisco, is back from eastern points optimistic over the prospects of bringing the G. O. P. elephant to the city by the Golden Gate next year. He finds the majority of the National Committee delegates in favor of San Francisco as the convention city and adds that the only thing, apparently, that could prevent this choice would be some exigency arising between now and December which would make it more strategic for political reasons to hold the meet elsewhere.

Having heard Mr. Crocker's views it is interesting to see an expression of opinion from elsewhere. Says the New York Herald Tribune editorially:

"With her invitation to the Republicans to hold their next convention within her gates, San Francisco could, if she chose, supply the best of recommendations from the Democratic party. While the Democratic candidate who was nominated in that city in 1920 fell somewhat short of election, there is no doubt that a good time was had by all the delegates. The West does not yield even to the South in open-handed hospitality."

"Despite Mr. Crocker's confidence that the successful candidate in 1928 will be nominated almost within sound of the tides which flow through the Golden Gate, it is still a little early to decide upon a convention town. Many cities which are eager to gain a place in history, or to make sure the place they have already won in presidential years, are still to be heard from. . . . Political strategy does not enter into the contest this year as far as the Republicans are concerned. All the states in which the aspiring cities are located will be in the Republican column in November."

"What does matter is climate and accessibility. The Democrats found Baltimore in 1912 and St. Louis in 1916 fairly accessible but extremely uncomfortable. When Chicago weather is on its good behavior she is an ideal convention city. But failing a lake breeze, Chicago can be as wearing to the stranger within her gates as was New York during the noisy struggle which resulted in the choice of Mr. Davis by the Democrats. San Francisco has a delightful climate in the summer time, and her people are expert entertainers. But it is not likely that her invitation will be accepted before those of many of her sister cities are received and considered."

The big New York paper does not believe the question of political expediency, of which Mr. Crocker warns, enters into the choice of a city this time. Rather it is viewed simply as a matter of climate and accessibility. The Herald Tribune lauds our climate but is silent concerning the facility of reaching our western slope. We believe that our inducement of scenery, cool breezes and hospitality are sufficient to overbalance the disadvantage of distance. And if the Democrats could buy railroad tickets to get here the poor Republicans should be able to raise the price.

Give the convention to our metropolis whose threefold boast is that she "knows how" and San Francisco will do the rest.

Pecans in California

Riverside Press

The pecan crop of Texas brought the growers of that state nearly $2,000,000 last year, and the industry is still in its infancy. A good many experiments have been made in California, more or less successful, but the industry has not been established here on a commercial basis.

It would seem a timely piece of work for the Riverside experiment station to undertake a thorough study of the pecan problem with a view of determining whether there is not some one variety well adapted to conditions here. There are a couple of trees on the A. B. Cutter place on Lemon street, planted by the late J. E. Cutter, that produce pecans of very fine quality; those and others in Riverside might be utilized in any investigations made. The more California can diversify its farm crops, the better; and the pecan seems to offer possibilities that have not yet been followed up in any exhaustive and scientific manner.

Need Not Forfeit His Rights

San Francisco Chronicle

The veterans' bureau has announced that it will permit men who have forfeited their bonus certificates for the amount of loans obtained on them to redeem the certificates on the installment plan. This is done to protect the interest of those victims of necessity who have given up the advantages of the certificates because they could not repay the loans.

The certificates have a constantly increasing loan value until, at the end of twenty years, they are payable in cash at face value. The government does not want any veteran to lose his rights just because he happens to be in hard luck.

In those cases where the holders raised loans with no other idea than to get what cash they could and let the rest slide, the taxpayers are just that much better off.

PROGRESS MADE IN DECREASING DEATH RATE OF BABIES

Everyone who has followed the decreasing death rates of civilized communities during the past hundred years realizes that much of the decrease is due to the substantial reduction that has taken place during the first year of life. In 1900, the death rate of infants under one year was 161 per thousand; in 1910, 141 per thousand, and in 1920, 106 per thousand.

The number of deaths under one year decreased considerably, but those under one month decreased only slightly, and those under one week hardly at all. In other words, as pointed out by Dr. Howard W. Green of the Cleveland (Ohio) Health Council, the better economic conditions and public health work of the past 20 years is apparently not affecting greatly the cause of death of infants in the first week of life.

Most of the deaths that occurred during the first year of life were due to disturbances of digestion and infection of the gastrointestinal tract by food not properly safeguarded. This has been largely eliminated.

The deaths which now occur are largely due to infection of the lungs, such as broncho-pneumonia, bronchitis, influenza and pneumonia. The number of deaths ascribed to venereal diseases in the parents has decreased somewhat, but the number of deaths from congenital malformations and from injuries at birth remains approximately the same.

The one factor which has steadily increased during the past generation as a cause of deaths in infants is the rate from premature birth. This apparently is associated with parental infection and with bad obstetrical care, and it indicates the necessity for more attention to the condition of the mother during the period before the child's birth. Certainly the mother who wishes to save her baby should see a physician just as soon as she realizes that she is to have a child, and should visit him regularly until after the child's birth.

The Only Remedy

Kansas City Star

Many persons throughout the country who are not inclined to be wet in their sympathies have remained skeptical about the feasibility of prohibition as a national order.

There is one way to bring this part of the public around to a more favorable attitude toward prohibition. The head of the newly organized bureau of prohibition, Dr. J. M. Doran, after his recent conference with his assistants and enforcement officials, called in from various parts of the country, announced that he was highly pleased with the situation, that enforcement officials had been admonished to observe the law themselves and that better results in enforcement were to be expected.

The friends of prohibition will hope so. Enforcement seldom has been satisfactory since prohibition was inaugurated. Yet it is the only way out. Admittedly, there are many difficulties in enforcement. They include political interference, a hostile as well as an indifferent popular attitude on the part of certain classes throughout the country, and the task of securing both competent and dependable enforcement agents. These conditions must be combated. More than that, they must be overcome.

OUT OF BOUNDS

You can revisit places where a fence
Holds back the woods and not expect to find Things altered much, but there's a difference
As soon as wheel-marked roads are left behind,
Some spots are never twice the same. The sun
Slants through a clump of birches and is lost
Forever; stones change color; webs are spun;
Then, like a silver shadow, comes the frost.
Nature's a chary giver. We must go
Watchful and wise beyond our own domain,
Piecing together what she'd have us know
And what we may not ever meet again—
A flash of winged scarlet, unforgotten,
Or a far hilltop turning into gold.

Misers are more for-getting than for-giving.
Every man may have his price, but if he has he isn't worth it. A good looking (g) lass causes many a young man to reflect. A beard suits some men because it covers a part of their face. There is no fool like an old fool—unless it is a young one. Lots of people fall over themselves in trying to get ahead of others.

Some remarks are like medicine—not so bad if you swallow them quickly.

Ma came back from downtown today, and I said, Some lady was here to see you this afternoon, ma.

I wonder who it could of bin, I wasn't expecting anybody, didn't she leave any name? ma said.

No mam, I sed, and ma sed, That's queer, wat did she say?

She sed she'd come back after supper, I sed, and ma sed, After supper, that's odd, wat did she want?

She wanted to see you, I sed, and ma sed, I know that much, I declare people that dont know enuff to leave their names wen they call would be better off if they stayed home, wat did she look like?

O, she was kind of fat, with tern up feet, I sed, and ma sed, I dont know any sutch woman.

Sure you do, ma, I sed, and ma sed, Dont contradict, and you know I always expect you to get peoples names if enybudy calls wile Im out, why didnt you ask her name?

Because, holey smokes, ma, she'd of thart I was crazy, I sed, and ma sed, Why would she for pity sakes? and I sed, Because G wizzlers, ma, she knew I knew it alreddy, it was Mrs. Simkins.

Who? ma sed, and I sed, Mrs. Simkins, Pudees mother, and ma sed, Well of all things, Im exhausted, I dont know weather to give you a good slap now or wait til I heer the rest of the story, because Im sure your only leeding up to something worse.

Wat I was leeding up to being that me and Puds had a fee and I scude his nose all bluddy and Mrs. Simkins ran out and stoped us and then rang our bell to tell ma, ony she didnt come back agen after supper to tell her after all, so I had all that trouble for nothing.

Proving sometimes the best thing to do is jest wait and see, the hard part being to know wen.

The Patchwork Quilt

BY ELEANOR YOUNG ELLIOTT
(Have you any patches to add to it?)

ALL THE WORLD IS SINGING
My pencil's careless tracings help
To weave a little rhyme
While around me, waves of music are beating all the time.

The wind across the mountain, the wind across the plain
And the wind down in the valley weave a rounded, sweet refrain From every vine and flower and from laden walnut trees, Comes the softly muted chorus of a thousand bees.

The sea—rich diapason and the raindrops' futile tears
Each add a lilting motif to the music of the spheres.
Spring and summer, autumn, winter, sounds the symphony of time

While my pencil's careless tracings help to weave a little rhyme.

CHRONICLES OF THE LITTLE GRAY HOUSE

The homely affairs of the Little Gray House, not of much importance today for vacation time is the outstanding thing and my thoughts are of nothing but play. For two blissful weeks I shall wander and roam with never a thought of my toil—a lady of leisure I'll be for a time instead of a "poor workin' goil."

And if it should chance you're vacationing too, in the mountains or down at the sea, the most idle person that comes into view will probably chance to be me. And the dear strapping Sons and poor Ginger Cat and the Plum Tree and things I love best, will vacation too, and so will the Quilt, and the Patchers will all have a rest.

When the two weeks are gone and I'm back at the desk plunged in work—like a sword—to the hilt, then rather your patches and send them all in to start on a new Patchwork Quilt.

Our dear old Buckeye poet from the blue Muskingum valley Sends his verses on "The Old Trail" and a greeting to the Quilters.

Thanks and greetings, we return you, dear Gray Poet of the Valley.
Mitchi Mantou the Mighty watch you, guard you, keep you, bless you.
May you send us many patches—each to make a reader happy.

THE OLD TRAIL

I love the Trail that leads me back to you
And all the sunny spots along the way;
I count you, dear, among the tried and true—
That's why my thoughts go down the Trail today.

Gay June-time has come and gone once more;
The long and lonely years drag endlessly;
I strain my eyes toward that alien shore
Where phantom hands are beckoning to me.

I miss your letters once so full of cheer,
Because so many friends have gone for aye;
That's why my heart turns back to you, my dear,
That's why my thoughts go down the Trail today.

For Stocking

Dear Patcher Lady:
It appears from some of the writin that that Lieutenant Kernal has been doin that the givin bug has bit him pretty hard. Now I aint got no time for gallyvantin around spyin on others for their wayward wanderin. I've wrote a little pome which my woman says she spouses will please some folks alright, so I'm sendin it to this summer quilt of yours. Here's my pome:

THE WORK-A-DAY WORLD
In the work-a-day world, dwell
In the work-a-day hosts,
Which tread a purposeful way;
Though their hands oft may lag,
And feet sometimes drag,
There is rest at the close of the day

In the work-a-day world, sits the godder of dreams,
With a dream for each work-a-day stroke;

And there's ever a goal
For the work-a-day soul,
And a song for the work-a-day folk.

There is giving as taking, in work-a-day world,
And love works with the work-a-day throng,
And work-a-day creed
is less word and more deed
For the ban of a work-a-day wrong.

SILAS SAPP.
Dear Lady of the Q&uilit:
In the language of the movies
"Came a day" to our business office last week when the atmosphere was charged with heat and temperament and it seemed as if the "Imp of Gloom" had pied the forms so that every little thing went wrong in a most exasperat-ing manner. Even the Chief's most even tempered, courteous and efficient secretary banged the keys of her typewriter in a most Dempseyesque manner—Doubtless intended as a vicarious punitive measure directed at the world at large and the office force in particular.

Then when things were just about to blow up in an acrimonious explosion the door of the Chief's sanctum-sanctorium opened and with a smile he commanded
"all hands belay there and absorb a little philosophic oil for the troubled waters of your heated mentalities." You see the Chief is Scotch but he lived on the south bank of the Shannon long enough to become a splendid mixer of metaphors.

Then came the enclosed verses after which the surcharged atmosphere cleared as does a heated area after a thunder shower and we all smiled and it was surprising how quickly the "Imp of Gloom" flew out through office transom. May we not all emulate the Virginians advice to Trampas
"Smile" when we say it.

GROWIN' SMILES
A smile is quite a funny thing,
It wrinkles up your face,
And when it's gone you never find its secret hiding place.

But far more wonderful it is
To see what smiles can do.
You smile at one, he smiles at you,
And so one smile makes two.

He smiles at someone, since you smiled,
And then that one smiles back
And that one smiles, until in truth
You keep in smiling track.

And since a smile can do great good
By cheering hearts of care,
Let's smile and smile and not forget

GOING HOME
I'm going home—the thought is sweet,
That soon my dear ones I shall meet
The lands afar, where I would roam,
Seem dull just now, when nearing home

Of all the earth, one little spot,
(Where it may be, it matters not)
To me, is fairest of the fair,
'Tis home, because I've loved ones
there.

Chums

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

CHILDREN are gregarious by nature, they must have playmates. It is the unusual child who prefers to be alone, for the average normal child demands company of his kind. Group association is desirable, for only in group play and work and in subordinating himself to the interest of all can normal adjustment be brought about in the child. Some children prefer one chum. They find the interests and companionship of some one child so desirable for one reason or another that he is greatly preferred to any one else or to a group. Chumming is desirable to a certain extent, for it promotes mutual interests and friendship and loyalty, but it should never be encouraged to the exclusion of other companionship, for it is neither wise nor broadening to be always in the companionship of one person, no matter how desirable his company may be.

DOROTHY lives in the house back of mine
And comes out each morning to play.
I like all the things that she wants most to do
And Dorothy likes all the things I choose, too.
That way we don't argue like lots of folks do
And quarrel like some chums every day.
Dorothy's birthday's a week before mine.
We'd like it the very same day.
Cause Dorothy wants to do things just like me
And I'm fond of Dorothy too, don't you see,
So that is the reason we always agree
And stay dearest chums in that way.
